THE TRAGEDY, OF JULIUS CAESAR.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Enter Flavius, Cassia, and certain Commoners over the Stage.

Flavius.

Hence: home you idle Creatures, get you home:
Is this a Holiday? What, know you not (Being Mechanical) you ought not to walk
Upon a labouring day, without the sign
Of your Profession? Speak, what Trade art thou?

Fla. Why Sir a Carpenter.

Cas. Where is thy Leather Apron, and thy Rule?
What dost thou with thy best Apparel on?
You Sir, what Trade are you?

Cobl. Truly Sir, in respect of a fine Workman, I am but as you would say, a Cobler.

Cas. But what Trade art thou? Answer me directly.

Cobl. A Trade Sir, that I hope I may use, with a safe Conscience, which is indeed Sir, a Mender of bad Soles.

Fla. What Trade thou knave? Thou naughty knave, what Trade?
cob. Nay I beseech you Sir, be not out with me: yet if you be out Sir, I can mend you.

cas. What meanst thou by that? Mend me, thou fawcy Fellow?
cob. Why Sir, Cobble you.
fla. Thou art a Cobler, art thou?
cob. Truly Sir, all that I live by is with the Awl: I meddle with no Tradesmans matters, nor Women matters; but while I am indeed. Sir, a Surgeon to old Shooes: when they are in great danger, I recover them. As proper men as ever trod upon Neats-Leather, have gone upon my handy work.
fla. But wherefore art not in thy Shop to day?
why do'ft thou lead these men about the Streets?
cob. Truly Sir, to wear out their Shooes, to get my self into more Work. But indeed Sir, we make Holyday to see Cesar, and to rejoice in his Triumph.
cas. Wherefore rejoice?
what Conquest brings he home?
what Tributaries follow him to Rome?
to grace in Captive bonds his Chariot Wheels?
you Blocks, you Stones, yea worse than senseless things:
o you hard hearts! you cruel men of Rome,
knew you not Pompey many time and oft?
have you climb'd up to Walls and Battlements,
to Towers and Windows? Yea, to Chimney tops, your Infants in your Arms, and there have fate
the live-long day, with patient expectation, to see great Pompey pass the Streets of Rome:
and when you saw his Chariot but appear,
have you not made an Universal shout,
that Tyber trembled underneath her banks to hear the replication of your sounds,
Made in her Concave Shores?
and do you now put on your best attyre?
and do you now call out a Holyday?
and do you now flrew Flowers in his way?
that comes in Triumph over Pompey's blood?
be gone,
run to your Houses, fall upon your Knees,
pray to the Gods to intermit the plague that needs must light on this Ingratitude.
fla. Go, go: Good Countrymen, and for this fault assemble all the poor men of your fort:
draw them to Tyber banks, and weep your Tears into the Channel, till the lowest stream do kifs the most exalted Shores of all.

Exeunt all the Commoners.
See where their basest mettle be not mov'd,
They vanish tongue-tyed in their guiltines:
Go you down that way towards the Capitol,
This way will I: Difrobe the Images,
If you do find them deck'd with Ceremonies.

Cas. May we do fo?
You know it is the feast of Lupercal.
Fla. It is no matter, let no Images
Be hung with Cæsar's Trophies: I'll about,
And drive away the Vulgar from the Streets;
So do you too, where you perceive them thick.
These growing Feathers pluck't from Cæsar's wing,
Will make him fly and ordinary pitch,
Who else would soar above the view of Men,
And keep us all in servile fearfulness.

Enter Cæsar, Antony for the Course, Calphurnia, Portia, Decius, Cicero, Brutus, Cassius, Caska a Soothsayer:
after them Murellus and Flavis.

Cæs. Calphurnia.
Cas. Peace ho, Cæsar speaks.
Cæs. Calphurnia.
Calph. Here my Lord.
Cæs. Stand you directly in Antony's way,
When he doth run his Course. Antony.

Ant. Cæsar, my Lord.
Cæs. Forget not in your speed Antony,
To touch Calphurnia: for our Elders say,
The barren touched in this holy Chace,
Shake of their sterile curse.

Ant. I shall remember,
When Cæsar says, Do this, it is perform'd.
Cæs. Set on and leave no Ceremony out.
Sooth. Cæsar.

Cæs. Ha! Who calls?
Cas. Bid every noise be still: peace yet again.
Cæs. Who is in the Press, that calls on me?
I hear a Tongue shriller than all the Mufick
Cry, Cæsar: Speak, Cæsar is turn'd to hear.

Sooth. Beware the Ides of March.
Cæs. What Man is that?
Brut. A Soothsayer bids you beware the Ides of March.
Cæs. Set him before me, let me see his face.
Cæs. Fellow, come from the throng, look upon Cæsar.
Cæs. What say'st thou to me now? Speak once again,
Sooth. Beware the Ides of March.

Cæs. He
Cæs. He is a Dreamer, let us leave him: Pass.

Cæs. Will you go see the order of the Course?

Brut. Not I.

Cæs. I pray you do.

Brut. I am not Gamefome? I do lack some part

Of that quick Spirit that is in Antony:

Let me not hinder Cæs; your desires;

I'll leave you.

Cæs. Brutus, I do observe you now of late:

I have not from your eyes, that gentleness

And shew of love, as I was wont to have:

You bear too stubborn, and so strange a hand

Over your Friend, that loves you.

Brut. Cæsius,

Be not deceiv'd: If I have veil'd my look,

I turn the trouble of my Countenance

Meerly upon my self. Vexed I am

Of late, with passions of some difference;

Conceptions only proper to my self,

Which give some joy (perhaps) to my behavour:

But let not therefore my good Friends be griev'd,

(Among which Cæsius be you one)

Nor construe any further My negle&
Then that poor Brutus with himself at War,

Forgets the shews of Love to other men.

Cæs. Then Brutus, I have much mistook your passion,

By means whereof, this Breast of mine hath buried

Thoughts of great value, worthy Cogitations.

Tell me, good Brutus, can you see your face?

Brut. No Cæsius:

For the eye sees not it self but by reflection,

By some other things.

Cæs. 'Tis just,

And it is very much lamented, Brutus,

That you have no such Mirrors, as will turn

Your hidden worthines into your eye,

That you might see your shadow:

I have heard,

Where many of the best respect in Rome,

(Except immortal Cæsar) speaking of Brutus,

And groaning underneath this Ages yoak,

Have wish'd, that Noble Brutus had his eyes.

Brut. Into what dangers, would you

Lead me Cæsius.

That you would have me seek into my self,
For that which is not in me?

C. Therefore good Brutus, be prepar’d to hear:
And since you know, you cannot see your self?
So well as by Reflection; I your Glaifs,
Will modestly discover to your self
That of your self, which you yet know not of.
And be not jealous on me, gentle Brutus.
Where I a common Laughter, or did use
To stale with ordinary Oaths my love
To every new Protefter: If you know,
That I do fawn on men, and hugg them hard,
And after scandal them: or if you know
That I profefs my self in Banquetting
To all the Rout, then hold me dangerous.

Flourish and Shout.

Bru. What means this Shouting?
I do fear, the People choose Caesar
For their King.

Coff. I, do you fear it?
Then must I think you would not have it so.

Bru. I would not Cassius, yet I love him well:
But wherefore do you hold me here so long?
What is it, that you would impart to me!
If it be ought toward the general Good,
Set Honour in one eye, and Death i’th’ other
And I will look on both indifferently:
For let the Gods fo speed me, as I love
The name of Honour, more than I fear Death.

Coff. I know that vertue to be in you, Brutus,
As well as I do know your outward favour.
Well, Honour is the subject of my Story:
I cannot tell, what you and other men
Think of this life; but for my single self,
I had as lief not be, as live to be
In awe to such a thing, as I my self.
I was born free as Caesar, fo were you,
We both have fed as well, and we can both Endure the Winters cold, as well as he,
For once upon a Raw and Gafty day,
The troubled Tyber, chaifing with her Shores,
Caesar said to me, dar’ft thou Cassius now
Leap in with me into this angry Flood,
And swim to yonder Point? Upon the word,
Accounted as I was, I plunged in.

And
And bad him follow: so indeed he did.
The Torrent roar'd, and we did buffet it
With lofty Sinews, throwing it aside,
And stemming it with hearts of Controversy.
But e'er we could arrive the Point propos'd,
Cæsar cry'd, Help me Cæsius, or I sink.
I (as Aeneas, our great Ancestor,
Did from the Flames of Troy, upon his shoulder
The old Anchises bear) so from the waves of Tyber
Did I the tyred Cæsar: And this Man,
Is now become a God, and Cæsius is
A wretched Creature, and must bend his body,
If Cæsar carelessly but nod on him.
He had a Feavour when he was in Spain,
And when the Fit was on him, I did mark
How he did shake: 'Tis true, this God did shake,
His Coward lips did from their Colour flie,
And that same Eye, whose bend doth awe the World,
Did lose his Lustre: I did hear him groan:
I, and that Tongue of his, that bad the Romans
Mark him, and write his Speeches in their Books,
Alas, it cry'd, give me some drink Titinius,
As a sick Girl: Ye Gods, it doth amaze me,
A man of such a feeble temper should
So get the start of the Majestick World,
And bear the Palm alone.

Shout.

Flourish.

Brutus. Another general shout?
I do believe, that these Applauses are
For some new honours, that are heap'd on Cæsar.

Cæsius. Why man, he doth bestride the narrow World,
Like a Colossus, and we petty men
Walk under his huge Legs, and peep about,
To find our selves dishonourable Graves.
Men at some time, are Master of their Fates,
The fault (dear Brutus) is not in our Stars,
But in our selves, that we are Underlings,

Brutus and Cæsar: What should be in that Cæsar?
Why should that Name be founded more than yours?
Write them together: Yours is as fair a Name:
Sound them, it doth become the mouth as well.
Weigh them, it is as heavy: Conjure with 'em,
Brutus will start a Spirit as soon as Cæsar.
Now in the Names of all the Gods at once,
Upon what meat doth this our Cæsar feed,
That he is grown so great? Age, thou art ashamed.
Rome, thou hast loft the breed of Noble Bloods.
When went there by an Age, since the great Flood,
But it was fam'd with more then with one man?
When could they say (till now) that talk'd of Rome,
That her wide Walks incompaft but one man?
Now is it Rome indeed, and Rome enough
When there is in it but one only man.
O! you and I, have heard our Fathers say,
There was a Brutus once, that would have brook'd
Th' eternal Devil to keep his State in Rome,
As easily as a King.

Brutus. That you do love me, I am nothing jealous:
What you would work me too, I have Some aim:
How I have thought of this, and of these times,
I shall recount hereafter. For this present,
I would not so (with love I might intreat you)
Be any further mov'd: What you have said
I will consider; what you have to say
I will with patience hear, and find a time
Both meet to hear, and answer such high things.
Till then my Noble Friend, chew upon this;
Brutus had rather be a Villager,
Then to repute himself a Son of Rome
Under these hard Conditions; as this time
Is live to lay upon us.

Cæcilius. I am glad that my weak words
Have struck but thus much shew of fire from Brutus.

Enter Cæsar and his Train.

Brutus. The Games are done,
And Cæsar is returning.

Cæcilius. As they pass by.

Pluck Caska by the Sleeve,
And he will (after his four fashion) tell you
What hath proceeded worthy note to day.

Brutus. I will do so: But look you Cæcilius,
The angry spot doth glow on Cæsar's brow,
And all the rest, look like a chidden Train;
Calphurnia's Cheek is pale and Cicero
Looks with such ferret, and such fiery Eyes,
As we have seen him in the Capitol

Being crost in Conference, by some Senaetors.

Cæcilius. Caska will tell us what the matter is.

Cæsar. Antonio.

Antonio. Cæsar.

Cæsar. Let me have men about me, that are fat,
Sleek-headed men, and such as sleep a nights:
Yond Cassius has a lean and hungry look,
He thinks too much: such men are dangerous.
He is a Noble Roman and well given.
Cæs. Would he were fatter; but I fear him not:
Yet if my name were liable to fear,
I do not know the man I should avoid
So soon as that spare Cassius. He reads much,
He is a great Observer, and he looks
Quite through the deeds of men. He loves no Plays.
As thou dost Antony: he hears no Musick;
Seldom he smiles, and smiles in such a sort,
As if he mock'd himself, and scorn'd his spirit
That could be mov'd to smile at any thing.
Such men as he be never at hearts ease,
While they behold a greater than themselves,
And therefore are they very dangerous.
I rather tell thee what is to be fear'd,
Than what I fear: for always I am Cæsar.
Come on my right hand, for this Ear is deaf,
And tell me truly, what thou think'ft of him. Sennit.

Execut Cæsar and his Train.

Cask. You pull me by the Cloak, would you speake with me?
Bru. I, Caska, tell us what hath chanc'd to day
That Cæsar looks so sad.
Cask. Why you were with him, were you not?
Bru. I should not then have ask'd Caska what hath chanc'd.
Cask. Why there was a Crown offer'd him; and being offer'd him, he put it by with the back of his hand thus, and then the people fell a shouting.
Bru. What was the second noise for?
Cask. Why for that too.
Cass. They shouted thrice. What was the last cry for?
Cask. Why for that too.
Bru. Was the Crown offer'd him thrice?
Cask. I marry was't, and he put by thrice, every time gentler than other, and at every putting by, mine honest Neighbours shouted.
Cass. Who offer'd him the Crown?
Cask. Why Antony.
Bru. Tell us the manner of it, gentle Caska.
Cask. I can as well be hang'd as tell the manner of it: It was meer Foolery, I did not mark it. I saw Mark Antony offer him a Crown, yet 'twas not a Crown neither, 'twas one of thefe Coronets; and as I told you he put it by once; but for all that, to my thinking, he would fain have had it. Then he offered it to him again; then he
he put it by again: But to my thinking, he was very loath to lay his fingers off it: And then he offered it the third time; he put it the third time by; and still as he refus'd it, the rabblement howted, and clapp'd their chopt hands, and threw up their sweaty Nightcaps, and uttered such a deal of thinking Breath, because Cæsar refus'd the Crown, that it almost choaked Cæsar; for he swooned, and fell down at it. And for my own part, I durst not laugh, for fear of opening my Lips, and receiving the bad Air.

Caffi. But soft I pray you: what, did Cæsar swoond?

Cas. He fell down in the Market-place, and foam'd at mouth, and was speechless.

Brus. 'Tis very like he hath the Falling-sickness.

Cas. I know not what you mean by that, but I am sure Cæsar fell down. If the tag-rag People did not clap him, and hiss him, according as he pleas'd, and displeas'd them, as they use to do the Players in the Theatre. I am no true man.

Brus. What said he, when he came unto himself?

Cas. Marry, before he fell down, when he perceived the common Herd was glad, he refus'd the Crown, he pluckt me one his Double, and offer'd them his Throat to Cut; and had I been a man of any Occupation, if I would not have taken him at a word; I would I might go to Hell among the Rogues, and so he fell. When he came to himself again, he said, if he had done, or said any thing amis, he desired their Worships to think it was his Infirmity. Three or four Wenches where I stood, cried, Alas! good Soul, and forgave him with all their Hearts; but there's no heed to be taken of them, if Cæsar had stabb'd their Mothers, they would have done no less.

Brus. And after that, he came thus fad away.

Cas. I.

Caffi. Did Cicero say any thing?

Cas. I, he spoke Greek.

Caffi. To what effect?

Cas. Nay, and I tell you that, I'll ne'er look you in the face again. But those that understood him, smil'd at one another, and shook their Heads; but for my own part it was Greek to me. I could tell you more News too: Murellum and Flavius, for pulling Scarfs off Cæsar's Images, are put to silence. Fare you well. There was more Foolery yet, if I could remember it.

Caffi. Will you sup with me to Night, Caska?

Cas. No, I am promis'd forth.

Caffi. Will you dine with me to-morrow?

Cas. I, if I be alive, and your mind hold, and your Dinner worth the eating.

Caffi. Good, I will expect you.
Cas. Do so: farewell both. Exit.

Bru. What a blunt fellow is this grown to be? He was quick Mettle when he went to School. Caffi. So he is now, in execution Of any hold, or Noble Enterprize, However he puts on his tardy form: This Ruddiness is a Savor to his good Wit, Which gives men stomack to digest his words With better Appetite. Bru. And so it is:

For this time I will leave you:
To morrow, if you please to speak with me, I will come home to you; or if you will, Come home to me, and I will wait for you.

Well Brutus, thou art Noble; yet I see, Thy Honourable Mettle may be wrought From that it is dispos’d: therefore it is meet, That Noble minds keep ever with their likes: For who so firm, that cannot be seduced? Caesar doth bear me hard, but he loves Brutus.
If I were Brutus now, and he were Caius, He should humour me, I will this Night, In several Hands, in at his Windows throw As if they came from several Citizens, Writings, all tending to the great opinion That Rome holds of his Name, wherein obscurely Caesar Ambition shall be glanced at. And after this, let Caesar let him sure, For we will shake him, or worse days endure.

Exit.

Thunder, and Lightning. Enter Caska, and Trebonius.

Treb. Good even, Caska; brought you Caesar home? Why are you breathless, and why stare you so?
Cas. Are not you mov’d, when all the sway of Earth Shakes, like a thing unfirm? O Cicero, I have seen tempests, when the scolding Winds Have riv’d thy knotty Oaks, and I have seen Th’ ambitious Ocean swell, and rage, and foam, To be exalted with the threatening Clouds: But never till to Night, never till now, Did go through a Tempest-dropping-fire. Either there is a Civil strife in Heaven,
Or else the World too fawcy with the Gods
Incens'd them to fend Destruction.

Treb. Why faw you any thing more wonderful?

Cas. A common flave, you know him well by fight,
Held up his left Hand, which did flame and burn
Like twenty Torches join'd, and yet his Hand,
Not fensible of fire, remain'd unflorch'd.

Besides, I ha'not fince put up my Sword,
Against the Capitol I met a Lyon,
Who gaiz'd upon me, and went furly by,
Without anoying me. And there were drawn
Upon a heap, a hundred gaffly Women,
Transform'd with their fear, who faw, they faw—
Men, all in fire, walk up and down the streets.
And yesterday, the Bird of Night did flit,
Even at Noon-day, upon the Market-place,
Howling, and fhrreeking. When these Prodigies
Do fo conjoyntly meet, let not man fay,
These are their Reafons, they are Natural;
For I believe they are portentious things
Unto the Climate that they point upon.

Treb. Indeed, it is a strange disposed time:
But men may construe things after their fashion.
Clean from the purpose of the things themselves.
Comes Cesar to the Capitol to morrow?

Cas. He doth, for he bid Atonio
Send word to you, he would be there to morrow.

Treb. Good-night then, Caska:
This disturbed Sky is not to walk in.

Cas. Farewel Trebomius.

Enter Cassius.

Cessi. Who's there?

Cas. A Roman.

Cassius. Caska, by your Voice.

Cas. Your Ear is good.

Cessi. What Night is this?

Cassius. A very pleafing Night to honeft men.

Cas. Who e'er knew the Heavens menace fo?

Cassius. Thofe that have known the Earth fo full of faults.

For my part, I have walk'd about the streets,
Submitting me unto the perilous Night;
And thus embraced, Caska, as you see,
Have bar'd my Bofom to the Thunder-flone,
And when the crofs blue Lightning feem'd to open
The Breast of Heaven, I did prelent my felf
Even in the aim, and very flash of it.
Cass. But wherefore did you so much tempt the Heavens?
It is the part of Men to fear and tremble,
When the most mighty Gods by Tokens send
Such dreadful Heralds to astonish us.

Cass. You are dull, Cassius:
And those sparks of Life that should be in a Roman,
You do want, or else you use not,
You look pale, and gaze, and put on fear,
And cast your self in wonder,
To see the strange impatience of the Heavens:
But if you would consider the true cause,
Why all these Fires, why all these gliding Ghosts,
Why Birds and Beasts, from quality and kind,
Why old Men, Fools, and Children calculate,
Why all these things change from their Ordinance,
Their Natures, and preformed Faculties,
To monstrous quality; why you shall find,
That Heaven hath infused them with these Spirits,
To make them Instruments of fear and warning,
Upon some monstrous State.

Now could I, Cassius, name to thee a man,
Most like this dreadful Night,
That thunders, lightens, opens Graves, and roars,
As doth the Lion in the Capitol:
A man no mightier than thy self, or me,
In personal Action; yet prodigious grown,
And fearful as these strange Eruptions are.

Cass. 'Tis Caesar that you mean:
Is it not, Cassius?

Cass. Let it be who it is: for Romans now
Have Thewes and Limbs like to their Ancestors;
But woe the while, our Fathers minds are dead,
And we are govern'd with our Mothers Spirits,
Our yoke and sufferance shew us Womanish.

Cass. Indeed, they say, the Senators to morrow
Mean to establish Caesar as a King:
And he shall wear his Crown by Sea and Land,
In every place, save here in Italy.

Cass. I know where I will wear this Dagger then:
Cassius from Bondage will deliver Cassius:
Therein, ye Gods, you make the weak most strong;
Therein, ye Gods, you Tyrants do defeat.
Nor stony Tower, nor Walls of beaten Brass,
Nor airless Dungeon, nor strong Links of Iron,
Can be re-tentive to the strength of spirit:
But Life being weary of these worldly Bars,
Never lacks power to dismiss it self
If I know this, know all the World besides.
That part of Tyranny that I do bear,
I can shake off at pleasure,

Cas. So can I:
So every Bond man in his own hand bears
The power to cancel his Captivity.

Caff. And why should Caesar be a Tyrant then?
Poor man, I know he would not be a Wolf,
But that he sees the Romans are but Sheep:
He were no Lyon, were not Romans Hinds.
Those that with haft will make a mighty fire.
Begin it with weak Straws. What trash is Rome?
What Rubbish, and what Offal? when it serves
For the base matter, to illuminate
So vile a thing as Caesar. But oh Grief,
Where hast thou led me? I (perhaps) speak this Before a willing Bondman: then I know
My answer must be made. But I am arm'd,
And dangers are to me indifferent.

Cas. You speak to Caska, and to such a man;
That is no flearing Tell-tale. Hold, my Hand;
Be factious for redress of all these Griefs,
And I will set this foot of mine as far,
As who goes farthest.

Caff. There's bargain made.
Now know you, Caska, I have mov'd already
Some certain of the Noblest minded Romans
To undergo, with me, an Enterprize,
Of Honourable dangerous consequence;
And I do know by this, they stay for me
In Pompey's Porch; for now this fearful Night,
There is no stir, or walking in the streets;
And the Complexion of the Element
Is Favours, like the Work we have in hand,
Most bloody, fiery, and most terrible.

Enter Cinna.

Cas. Stand close a while, for here comes one in haft.

Caff. 'Tis Cinna: I do know him by his Gate.
He is a Friend, Cinna, where hast you so?

Cinna. To find out you; Who's that, Metellus Cymbcr?

Caff. No it is Caska, one incorporate
To our Attempts. Am I not stay'd for, Cinna?

Cinna. I am glad on't.
What a fearful Night is this?
There's two or three of us have seen strange fights.

Cass. Am I not stay'd for? tell me.
Cinna. Yes you are. O Cassius,
If you could but win the Noble Brutus
To our party—

Cass. Be you content. Good Cinna, take this Paper,
And look you lay it in the Praetors Chair,
Where Brutus may but find it: and throw this
In at his Window; set this up with Wax
Upon old Brutus Statue: all this done,
Repair to Pompey's Porch, where you shall find us.
Is Decius Brutus and Trebonius there?

Cinna. All, but Metellus Cymber, and he's gone
To seek you at your house. Well, I will hie,
And so bestow these Papers as you bade me.

Cass. That done, repair to Pompey's Theatre.

Exit Cinna.

Come Caska, you and I will yet e're day,
See Brutus at his house; three parts of him
Is ours already, and the man entire
Upon the next encounter, yields him ours.

Cas. O, he fits high in all the Peoples Hearts,
And that which would appear Offence in us,
His Countenance, like richest Alchymy,
Will change to Vertue and to Worthines.

Cass. Him, and his worth, and our great need of him
You have right well conceited: let us go,
For it is after Mid-night, and e're day,
We will awake him and be sure of him:

Exeunt.

Acutus Secundus.

Enter Brutus in his Orchard.

I cannot, by the progress of the Stars,
Give guests how near to day Lucius, I say?
I would it were my fault to sleep so soundly.
When, Lucius, when; awake, I say: what Lucius...

Enter
Enter Lucius.

Luc. Call’d you, my Lord?

Bru. Get me a Taper in my Study, Lucius;
When it is lighted come and call me here:

Luc. I will my Lord. Exit.

Bru. It must be by his death: and for my part,
I know no personal cause, to spurn at him,
But for the general. He would be Crown’d:
How that might change his nature, there’s the question?
It is the bright day that brings forth the Adder,
And that craves wary walking: Crown him that,
And then I grant we put a Sting in him,
That at his will he may do danger with.
Th’ abuse of Greatness, is, when it disjoyns
Remorse from Power: and to speak truth of Cæsar.
I have not known, when his Affections sway’d
More than his Reason. But ’tis a common proof,
That Lowline is young Ambition’s Ladder.
Whereto the Climber upwards turns his Face:
But when he once attains the upmost Round,
He then unto the Ladder turns his Back,
Looks in the Clouds, scorning the base degrees
By which he did ascend: so Cæsar may;
Then left he may, prevent. And since the Quarrel
Will bear no colour, for the thing he is,
Fashion it thus; that what he is, augmented,
Would run to those, and those extremities:
And there o’er think him as a Serpents Egg,
Which hatch’d, would as his kind grow mischievous;
And kill him in the shell.

Enter Lucius.

Luc. The Taper burneth in your Closet, Sir:
Searching the Window for a Flint, I found
This paper, thus seal’d up, and I am sure
It did not lye there when I went to Bed.

Bru. Get you to Bed again, it is not day:
Is not to morrow (Boy) the first of March?

Luc. I know not Sir.

Bru. Look in the Calendar, and bring me word.

Luc. I will, Sir. Exit.

Bru. The Exhalations whizzing in the air.
Give so much light, that I may read by them.

Opens the Letter and reads.

Brutus, thou sleepest; awake, and see thy self.
Shall Rome, &c. speak, strike, redress.
Brutus, thou sleepest: awake;
Such instigations have been often dropt,
Where I have took them up:
Shall Rome, &c. Thus must I piece it out,
Shall Rome, stand under one mans awe? What Rome?
My Ancestors did from the streets of Rome,
The Tarquin drive, when he was call'd a King.
Speak, strike, redress. Am I entreated
To speak and strike? O Roman, I make the promise,
If the redress will follow, thou receivest
Thy full Petition at the hand of Brutus.

Enter Lucius.

Luc. Sir, March is wafted fifteen days.

Bru. 'Tis good. Go to the gate, some body knocks,
Since Cassius first did whet me against Caesar,
I have not slept
Between the acting of a dreadful thing,
And the first motion, all the interim is Like a Phantasma, or hideous Dream:
The Genius, and the mortal instruments
Are then in council and the state of man,
Like to a little Kingdom, suffers then
The nature of an Insurrection.

Enter Lucius.

Luc. Sir 'tis your Brother Cassius at the Door,
Who desires to see you.

Bru. Is he alone?

Luc. No, Sir, there are more with him.

Bru. Do you know them?

Luc. No, Sir, there Hats are pluckt about their Ears,
And half their Faces buried in their Cloacks,
That by no means I may discover them,
By any mark of favour.

Bru. Let 'em enter:
They are the Faction O Conspiracy,
Sham'st thou to shew thy dang'rous Brow by Night,
When evils are most free? O them by day,
Where wilt thou find a Cavern dark enough,
To mask thy monstrous Visage? seek no Conspiracy,
Hide it in Smiles, and Affability:
C J E S A R

For thou hast thy Native semblance on,
Not Erebus it felt were dim enough,
To hide thee from prevention.

Enter the Conspirators, Cassius, Caska, Decius, Cinna,
Metellus and Trebonius.

Cass. I think we are too bold upon your Rest:
Good morrow Brutus, do we trouble you?
Brut. I have been up this Hour, awake all Night:
Know I these men, that come along with you?
Cass. Yes, every man of them; and no man here
But honours you: and every one doth wish,
You had but that opinion of your self,
Which every Noble Roman bears of you,

This is Trebonius.

Brut. He is welcome hither.
Cass. This Decius Brutus.
Brut. He is welcome too.
Cass. This Caska; this, Cinna; and this Metellus Cymber.
Brut. They are all welcome.

What watchful Cares do interpose themselves
Betwixt your Eyes and Night?
Cass. Shall I intreat a word? They whisper.
Decius. Here lies the East; doth not the Day break here?
Cas. No.

Cin. O pardon, Sir, it doth, and yon gray Lines,
That fret the Clouds, are Messengers of Day.
Cas. You shall confess, that you are both deceiv'd?
Here, as I point my Sword, the Sun arises,
Which is a great way growing on the South,
Weighing the youthful Season of the Year,
Some two Months hence, up higher toward the North
He first presents his Fire, and the high East
Stands as the Capitol, directly here.

Brut. Give me your hands all over, one by one.
Cass. And let us swear our Resolution.
Brut. No, not an Oath; if not the Face of men,
The Sufferance of our Souls, the times Abuse;
If these Motives weak, break off betimes,
And every Man hence to his idle Bed?
So let high-sighted Tyranny range on,
Till each Man drop by Lottery, But if these
(As I am sure they do) bear Fire enough
To kindle Cowards, and to steel with Valour
The melting Spirits of Woman. Then Countrymen;
What need we any Spur, but our own Cause,
To prick us to redress? What other Bond,
Than secret Romans, that have spoke the Word,
And will not palter? And what other Oath
Than Honesty to honesty engag'd,
That this shall be, or we shall fall for it.
Swear Priests and Cowards, and Men cautious
Old feedle Carrions and such suffering Souls
That welcome Wrongs: Unto bad Causes swear,
Such Creatures as Men doubt; but do not stain
The even vertue of our Enterprize,
Nor th' insupportive mettle of our Spirits,
To think, that, or our Cause, or our Performance
Did need an Oath. When every drop of Blood
That every Roman bears, and Nobly bears,
Is guilty of a several Bafflery,
If he do break the smallest Particle
Of any Promise that hath past from him.
Cæs. But what of Cicero? Shall we found him?
I think he will stand very strong with us.
Cæs. Let us not leave him out.
Cin. No by no means.
Mettel. O let us have him! for his silver Hairs
Will purchase a good opinion:
And by Mens Voices, to commend our Deeds:
It shall be said his Judgment rul'd our Hands,
Our Youths and Wildnefs shall no whit appear,
But all be buried in his Gravity.
Brut. O name him not; let us not break with him
For he will never follow any thing
That other men begin.
Cæffi. Then leave him out.
Cæs. Indeed, he is not fit.
Decius. Shall no man else be touch'd, but only Cæsar?
Cæs. Decius well urg'd: I think it is not meet,
Mark Antony, so well belov'd of Cæsar.
Should out-live Cæsar, we shall find of him
A shrewd Contriver. And you know, his means,
If he improve them, may well stretch so far
As to annoy us all: which to prevent,
Let Antony and Cæsar fall together.
Our Course will seem too bloody, Caius Cassius;
To cut the Head off, and then hack the Limbs:
Like Wrath in Death, and Envy afterwards:
For Antony is but a Limb of Caesar,
Let's be Sacrificers, but no Butchers, Caius:
We all stand up against the Spirit of Caesar,
And in the Spirit of Men there is no Blood
O that we then could come by Caesar's Spirit,
And not dismember Caesar! But (alas!)
Caesar must bleed for it. And gentle Friends,
Let's kill him boldly, but not wrathfully:
Let's carve him, as a Dish fit for the Gods,
Not hew him as a Carcass fit for Hounds;
And let our Hearts, as subtle Masters do,
Stir up their Servants to an act of Rage,
And after seem to chide 'em. This shall make
Our purpose necessary, and not envious.
With so appearing to the common Eyes,
We shall be call'd Purgers, not Murtherers.
And for Mark Antony, think not of him:
For he can do no more than Caesar's Arm,
When Caesar's Head is off.

Cass. Yet I fear him,
For in the ingrafted Love he bears to Caesar.

Bru. Alas! good Cassius, do not think of him:
If he love Caesar, all that he can do
Is to himself, take thought, and dye for Caesar;
And that were much he should; for he is given
To Sports and Wildness, and much company.

Treb. There is no fear in him; let him not dye,
For he will live and laugh at this hereafter.
Clock strikes.

Bru. Peace, count the Clock.
Cass. The Clock hath stricken three.
Treb. 'Tis time to part.
Cass. But it is doubtful yet,
Whether Caesar will come forth to day, or no:
For he is Superstitious grown of late,
Quite from the main Opinion he held once,
Of Fantastie, of Dreams, and Ceremonies:
It may be these apparent Prodigies,
The unaccustom'd Terror of this Night;
And the Persuasion of his Augurers,
May hold from the Capitol to day.

Decius. Never fear that: if he be so resolv'd,
I can o'er-sway him: For he loves to hear,

That
That Unicorns may be betray’d with Trees,
And Bears with Glassses, Elephants with Holes,
Lions with Toils, and Men with Flatterers,
But when I tell him he hates Flatterers,
He says, he does; begin then most flattered.
Let me work:
For I can give his Humour the true bent;
And I will bring him to the Capitol.

Cass. Nay, we will all of us be there to fetch him.
Brut. By the eighth Hour, is that the uttermost?

Cin. Be that the uttermost, and fail not then.
Met. Caius Ligarius doth bear Cæsar hard,
Who rated him for speaking well of Pompey,
I wonder none of you have thought of him.

Brut. Now good Metellus go along by him.
He loves me well, and I have given him Reason,
Send him but hither, and I’ll fashion him.

Cass. The Morning comes upon’s:
We’ll leave you, Brutus,
And Friends disperse your selves; but all remember
What you have said, and shew your selves true Romans.

Brut. Good Gentlemen look fresh and merrily.
Let not our Looks put on our Purposes,
But bear it as our Roman Actors do.
With untir’d Spirits, and formal Constancy,
And so good Morrow to you every one.

Exeunt.

Metet Brutus.

Boy: Lucius, Fast asleep? It is no Matter.
Enjoy the honey-heavy dew of Slumber:
Thou hast no Figures, nor no Fantalies,
Which busy Care draws in the Brains of Men;
Therefore thou sleep’st so sound.

Enter Portia.

Por. Brutus; my Lord,
Brut. Portia What mean you? wherefore rise you now!
It is not for your Health, thus to commit
Your weak Condition to the raw cold Morning.

Por. Nor for yours neither. ’Have ungently, Brutus
Stole from my Bed: and yefternight at Supper
You suddenly arofe, and walk’d about,
Musing and figthing, with your Arms a-crofs;
And when I as’d you what the Matter was,
You star’d upon me with ungentle Looks.
I urg’d you further; then you scratch’d your Head,

And
And too impatiently stamp’d with your Foot:
Yet I insisted; yet you answer’d not,
But with an angry waft of your hand,
Gave sign for me to leave you; So I did,
Fearing to strengthen that Impatience
Which seem’d too much inkindled; and withal
Hoping it was but an effect of Humour,
Which sometime hath his Hour with every Man.
It will not let you eat, nor talk, nor sleep;
And cou’d it work so much upon your Shape,
As it hath much prevail’d on your Condition,
I should not know you, Brutus, Dear my Lord,
Make me acquainted with your cause of Grief.
Brut. I am not well in Health, and that is all.
Port. Brutus is wife, and were he not in Health,
He would embrace the means to come by it.
Brut. Why so I do: good Portia go to bed.
Port. Is Brutus sick? And is it Physical
To walk unbraced, and suck up the Humours
Of the dark Morning? What is Brutus sick?
And will he steal out of his wholesome bed
To dare the vile Contagion of the Night?
And tempt the rheumy and unpurged Air,
To add unto his Sickness? No, my Brutus,
You have some sick Offence within your Mind.
Which by the right and vertue of my place,
I ought to know of: And upon my knees,
I charm you by my once commended Beauty,
By all your Vows of Love, and that great Vow
Which did incorporate and make us one,
That you unfold to me, your self, your half,
Why you are heavy, and what Men to night
Have had Resort to you; for here have been
Some six or seven, who did hide their Faces
Even from Darkness.
Brut. Kneel not, gentle Portia.
Port. I should not need, if you were gentle Brutus.
Within the Bond of Marriage, tell me Brutus,
Is it expected, I should know no Secrets
That appertain to you? Am I your self,
But as it were in fort, or Limitation?
To keep with you at Meals, comfort your Bed,
And talk to you sometime? Dwell I but in Suburbs
Of your good Pleasure? If it be no more,
Portia is Brutus Harlot, not his Wife.
Bru. You
Brutus. You are my true and honourable Wife,
As dear to me as are the ruddy Drops
That visit my sad Heart.

Portia. If this were true, then should I know this Secret:
I grant I am a Woman; but withal,
A Woman that Lord Brutus took to Wife:
I grant I am a Woman; but withal,
A Woman well reputed: Cato's Daughter.
Think you, I am no stronger than my Sex;
Being so father'd, and so husbanded?
Tell me your Counsels, I will not disclose 'em:
I have made strong Proof of my Constancy,
Giving my self a voluntary Wound
Here in the Thigh: Can I bear that with Patience,
And not my Husband's Secrets?

Brutus. O ye Gods!

Portia. Go in a while,
And by and by thy Bosom shall partake
The Secrets of my Heart.
All my Engagements I will conftrue to thee,
All the Character of my sad Brows,
Leave me with haste.

Exit Portia.

Enter Lucius and Ligarius.

Lucius. Who's that knocks?

Lucius. Here is a sick Man that would speak with you.

Brutus. Caius Ligarius that Metellus spake of.

Boy, stand aside. Caius Ligarius, how?

Caius. Vouchsafe good Morrow from a feeble Tongue.

Brutus. O what a time have you chose out, brave Caius.

To wear a Kerchief? Would you were not sick.

Caius. I am not sick if Brutus have in hand
Any Exploit worthy the Name of Honour.

Brutus. Such an Exploit have I in hand, Ligarius,
Had you a healthful Ear to hear of it.

Caius. By all the Gods that Romans bow before,
I here disclaim my sickness. Soul of Rome,
Brave Son, deriv'd from honourable Loins,
 Thou like an Exorcist, hast conjur'd up
My mortified Spirits. Now bid me run,
And I will strive with things impossible,
Yea get the better of them. What's to do?

Brutus. A piece of Work,
That will make sick Men whole.

Caius. But
Cai. But are not some whole, that we must make sick?
Bru. That must we also. What it is, my Caius,
I shall unfold to thee, as we are going,
To whom it must be done.
Cai. Set on your foot.
And with a heart new-spir'd, I follow you,
To do I know not what: but it sufficeth,
That Brutus leads me on.
Bru. Follow me then.

Thunder and Lightening.

Enter Julius Cæsar in his night-gown.

Cæsar. Nor Heaven nor Earth,
Have been at peace to night:
Thrice hath Calphurnia in her sleep cry'd out;
Help, ho: They murthers Cæsar. Who's within?

Enter a Servant.

Ser. My Lord.
Cæs. Go bid the Priests do present Sacrifice,
Ser. I will, my Lord.

Enter Calphurnia.

Cal. What mean you Cæsar, think you to walk forth?
You shall not stir out of your house to day.
Cæs. Cæsar, shall forth; the things that threaten'd me,
Ne'er look'd but on my back: When they shall see
The face of Cæsar, they are vanished.
Cal. Cæsar, I never stood on Ceremonies,
Yet now they fright me: There is one within,
Besides the things that we have heard and seen,
Recounts most horrid sights seen by the Watch,
A Lion's whelped in the Street,
And Graves have yawn'd and yielded up their dead.
Fierce fiery Warrior's fight upon the Clouds
In Ranks and Squadrons, and right form of War,
Which drizel'd Blood upon the Capitol:
The noise of Battle hurtled in the Air;
Horses do neigh, and dying Men did groan,
And Ghosts did shriek and squeal about the Streets.
O Cæsar, these things are beyond all use,
And I do fear them.
Cæs. What can be avoided.
Whole End is purpos'd by the mighty Gods?
Yet Cæsar shall go forth: for these Predictions
Are to the World in general as to Cæsar.
Cal. When beggars dye, there are no Comets seen,
The Heavens themselves blaze forth the Death of Princes.
Ces. Cowards dye many times before their Deaths,
The valiant never taste of Death but once.
Of all the wonders that I yet have heard,
It seems to me most strange that Men should fear,
Seeing that Death, a necessary End,
Will come when it will come.

Enter a Servant.

What say the Augures?
Ser. They would not have you to stir forth to day.
Plucking the Intrails of an Offering forth,
They could not find a Heart within the beast.
Ces. The Gods do this in shame of Cowardise:
If he should stay at home to day for fear;
No, Cesare shall not; Danger knows full well
That Cesare is more dangerous then he.
We hear two Lions litter'd in one day.
And I the elder and more terrible,
And Cesare shall go forth.

Ces. Alas my Lord,
Your Wisdom is consum'd in Confidence:
Do not go forth to day: call it my Fear
That keeps you in the House, and not your own.
We'll send Mark Antony to the Senate-house,
And he shall say, you are not well to day:
Let me upon my knee prevail in this.
Ces. Mark Antony shall say I am not well,
And for thy Humour I will stay at Home.

Enter Decius.

Here's Decius Brutus he shall tell them so.

Dec. Cesare, all hail: Good morrow worthy Cesare,
I come to fetch you to the Senate-house.

Ces. And you are come in very happy time,
To bear my greeting to the Senators,
And tell them that I will not come to day:
Cannot, is false, and that I dare not, falser:
I will not come to day, tell them so Decius.

Ces. Say he is sick.

Ces. Shall Cesare send a Lye?
Have I in Conquest stretch'd mine Arms so far,
To be afraid to tell Gray beards the Truth?
Decius, go tell them, Cesare will not come.

Dec. Most mighty Cesare; let me know some cause,
Left I be laugh'd at when I tell them so.

_Cæsar._ The Caufe is in my will, I will not come,
That is enough to fatisfie the Senate.
But for your private Satisfaction,
Because I love you I will let you know.

_Calphurnia._ Here my Wife stays me at home:
She dream'd to night she saw my Statue,
Which like a Fountain, with an hundred Spouts,
Did run pure Blood; and many luffy _Romans._
Came smiling, and did bath their Hands in it;
And these does she apply, for Warnings and Portents,
And Evils imminent; and on her knee
Hath begg'd that I will stay at home to day.

_Dec._ This Dream is all amiss interpreted;
It was a Vision fair and fortunate;
Your Statue spouting Blood in many Pipes,
In which so many smiling _Romans_ bath'd,
Signifies, that from you great _Rome_ shall grow
Reviving Blood, and that great Man shall press
For Tinctures, Stains, Reliques, and Cognizance.
This by _Calphurnia's_ Dream is signified.

_Cæsar._ And this way have you well expounded it?

_Dec._ I have, when you have heard what I can say.
And know it now, the Senate have concluded
To give this day a Crown to mighty _Cæsar._
If you shall send the word you will not come,
Their minds may change. Besides it were a mock
Apt to be render'd, for some one to say,
Break up the Senate till another time.
When _Cæsar's_ Wife shall meet with better Dreams.
If _Cæsar_ hide himself, shall they not whisper,
Lo _Cæsar_ is afraid?
Pardon me _Cæsar_, for my dear, dear Love
To your Proceedings, bids me tell you this:
And Reason to my Love is liable.

_Cæsar._ How foolish do your Fears seem now _Calphurnia_?
I am ashamed I did yield to them.
Give me my Robe, for I will go.

_Enter Brutus, Ligarius, Metellus, Caska, Trebonius, Cinna, and Publius._

And look where _Publius_ is come to fetch me.

_Pub._ Good morrow, _Cæsar._

_Cæsar._ Welcome _Publius._

What _Brutus_, are you stirr'd so early too?

_Good morrow, Caska; Cains Ligarius._

_D 2_
Julius Cæsar

Cæsar was ne’er so much your Enemy,
As that same Ague which hath made you lean,
What is’t a Clock?

Bru. Cæsar, ’tis strucken Eight.

Cæs. I thank you for your Pains and Courtesie.

Enter Antony.

See, Antony that Revels long a nights
Is notwithstanding up. Good morrow Antony.

Ant. So to most Noble Cæsar.

Cæs. Bid them prepare within:
I am too blame to be thus waited for,
Now Cinna, now Metellus; what Trebonius.
I have an hours talk in store for you;
Remember that you call on me to day;
Be near me, that I may remember you.

Treb. Cæsar I will; and so near will I be,
That your best Friends shall wish I had been farther.

Cæs. Good Friends go in, and taste some Wine with me.
And we (like Friends) will straight way go together.

Bru. That every like is not the same, O Cæsar,
The Heart of Brutus earns to think upon.

Exeunt.

Enter Artimedorus.

Cæsar. beware of Brutus, take heed of Cassius, come not near Caska, have an eye to Cinna, trust not Trebonius, mark well Metellus Cymber, Decius Brutus loves thee not: Thou hast wrong’d Caius Ligarius. There is but one Mind in all these Men, and it is bent against Cæsar: If thou beest not immortal, look about you, Security gives way to Conspiracy, The mighty Gods defend the. Thy Love, Artimedorus.

Here will I stand till Cæsar pafs along,
And as a Suiter will I give him this:
My Heart laments, the Virtue cannot live
Out of the Teeth of Emulation
If thou read this, O Cæsar, thou mayest live,
If not, the Fates which Traitors do contrive.

Exit.

Enter Portia and Lucius.

Por. I Prithee Boy, run to the Senate-house,

Stay
Stay not to answer me, but get thee gone,
Why dost thou stay?
   Luc. To know my Errand, Madam.
   Por. I would have had thee there and here again
   'Ere I can tell thee what thou should'st do there:
O Constancy, be strong upon my side,
Set a huge Mountain 'tween my Heart and Tongue:
I have a Man's Mind, but a Woman's Might:
How hard it is for Woman to keep Counsel.
Art thou here yet?
   Luc. Madam, what shall I do?
Run to the Capitol, and nothing else?
And so return to You, and nothing else?
   Por. Yes, bring me word Boy, if my Lord looks well,
For he went sickly forth: and take good note
What Cæsar doth, what Suiters press to him.
Hark Boy, what noise is that?
   Luc. I hear none, Madam.
   Por. Prithee listen well:
I heard a bussling Rumour like a Fray,
And the Wind brings it from the Capitol,
   Luc. Madam, I hear nothing.

Enter the Soothsayer.
   Por. Come hither Fellow, which way hast thou been?
   Sooth. At mine own House, good Lady.
   Por. What is't a Clock?
   Sooth. About the ninth hour, Lady.
   Por. Is Caesar yet gone to the Capitol?
   Sooth. Madam, not yet, I go to take my Stand,
To see him pass on to the Capitol?
   Por. Thou hast some Suit to Caesar, hast thou not?
   Sooth. That I have, Lady, if it will please Caesar
To be so good Caesar, as to hear me:
I shall beseech him to befriend himself.
   Por. Why know'st thou any harms intended towards him?
   Sooth. None that I know will be:
Much that I fear may chance:
Good morrow to you; here the street is narrow;
The throng that follows Caesar at the heels,
Of Senators, of Praetors, common Suiters,
Will crowd a feeble man almost to death;
I'll get me to a place more void, and there
Speak to great Caesar as he comes along.
  Par. I must go in.
Aye me, How weak a thing.
The Heart of Woman is, O Brutus,
The Heavens speed thee in thine Enterprize.
Sure the Boy heard me; Brutus hath a suit
That Caesar will not grant, O, I grow faint;
Run Julius, and commend me to my Lord,
Say I am merry; Come to me again,
And bring me word what he doth say to thee.

Exit.

Actus Tertius.

Flourish.

Enter Caesar, Brutus, Cassius, Caska, Decius, Metellus, Trebonius, Cinna, Antony, Lepidus, Artimedorus, Publius, and the Soothsayer.

Caes. The Ides of March are come.
Sooth. I Caesar, but not gone.
Art. Hail Caesar; Read this Schedule.
Dec. Trebonius doth desire you to o'er-read
At your best leisure, this his humble suit.
Art. O Caesar, read mine first; for mine's a suit
That touches Caesar nearer, Read it great Caesar.
Caes. What touches our self, shall be last serv'd.
Art. Delay not Caesar, read it instantly.
Pub. Sirrah, give place.
Cassi. What urge you your Petitions in the Street?
Come to the Capitol.
Popil. I wish your Enterprize to day may thrive.
Cassi. What Enterprize, Popilus?
Popil. Fare you well.
Bru. What said Popilius Lena?
Cassi. He wish'd to day our Enterprize might thrive;
I fear our Purpose is discovered.
Bru. Look how he makes to Caesar; mark him.

Cassi.
Cæsar. Cæsar be sullen, for we fear Prevention.

Brutus, what shall be done? if this be known,
Cæsius or Cæsar never shall turn back,
For I will slay my self.

Brutus. Cæsius be constant:

Popilius Lena, speaks out of our Purposes,
For look he smiles, and Cæsar doth not change.

Cæsius. Trebonius knows his time; Brutus,
He draws Mark Antony out of the way.

Dec. Where is Metellus Cymber, let him go,
And presently prefer his suit to Cæsar.

Brutus. He is address'd: press near, and second him.

Cin. Caska, you are the first that rears your hand.

Cæsius. Are we all ready; what is now amiss,
That Cæsar and his Senate must redress?

Metellus. Most high, most mighty, and most puissant Cæsar,
Metellus Cymber throws before thy Seat
An humble Heart.

Cæsius. I must prevent thee Cymber:
These Couchings, and these lowly Courtiers
Might fire the Blood of ordinary Men,
And turn pre-Ordinance, and first Decree,
Into the Lane of Children. Be not fond
To think that Cæsar bears such Rebel blood
That will be thaw'd from the true Quality
With that which melteth Fools, I mean sweet words,
Low-crooked Courtesies, and base Spaniel Fawning:
Thy Brother by decree is banished.
If thou dost bend, and pray, and fawn for him,
I spurn the like a Cur out of my way:
Know, Cæsar doth not wrong, nor without cause
Will he be satisfied.

Metellus. Is there no Voice more worthy than my own.
To sound more sweetly in great Cæsar's Ear,
For the repealing of my banish'd Brother.

Brutus. I kiss thy Hand, but not in Flattery Cæsar:
Desiring thee that Publius Cymber may
Have an immediate freedom of Repeal.

Cæsius. What Brutus?

Cæsius. Pardon Cæsar, Cæsar pardon;
As low as to thy foot doth Cæsius fall,
To beg infranchisement for Publius Cimber.

Cæsius. I could be well mov'd, if I were as you,
If I could pray to move, Prayers would move me:
But I am constant as the Northern Star,
Of whose true fixt, and resting quality,
There is no fellow in the Firmament.
The Skies are painted with unnumbred Sparks,
They are all Fire, and every one doth shine:
But, there's but one in all doth hold his place.
So, in the World; 'tis furnish'd well with Men,
And Men are Flesh and Blood, and apprehensive;
Yet in the number, I do know but One
That unaffaylable holds on his Rank,
Unshak'd of Motion: and that I am he,
Let me a little shew it, even in this:
That I was constant Cymber should be banish'd,
And constant do remain to keep him so.

Cinna. O Cesar.

Cn. Hence: Wilt thou lift up Olympus?
Decius. Great Cesar.

Caf. Doth not Brutus bootless kneel?
Cask. Speak hands for me.

They stab Cesar.

Caf. Et tu Brute?---Then fall Cesar.

Cin. Liberty, freedom; Tyrany is dead.
Run hence, proclaim, cry it about the Streets.

Caffi. Some to the common Pulpits, and cry out
Liberty, Freedom, and Enfranchisement.

Bru. People and Senators, be not affrighted:
Fly not, stand still: Ambitions debt is paid.

Cask. Go to the Pulpit, Brutus.

Dec. And Cæsius too.

Bru. Where's Publius?

Cin. Here, quite confounded with this Mutiny.

Mer. Stand fast together, lest some Friend of Cæsar's should charge.

Bru. Talk not of standing. Publius good cheer,
There is no harm intended to your Person,
Nor to no Roman else; so tell them Publius.

Cæsius. And leave us Publius, lest that the people
Rushing on us, should do your Age some mischief:

Bru. Do so, and let no man abide this deed,
But we the Doers.

Enter Trebonius

Cæsius. Where is Antony?

Treb. Fled to his House amaz'd:

Men, Wives, and Children, stare, cry out, and run;
As it were Doomsday.

Bru. Fates, we will know your pleasures;
That we shall dye we know, 'tis but the time
And drawing days out, that Men stand upon.

Cask. Why he that cuts of twenty years of life,
Cuts off so many years of fearing death.

Brutus. Grant that, and then is death a benefit:
So are we Cesar's Friends, that have abridg'd
His time of fearing death. Stoop Romans, stoop,
And let us bath our hands in Cesar's blood
Up to the Elbows, and besmear our Swords:
Then walk we forth into the Market-place,
And waving our red Weapons o're our Heads,
Let's all cry Peace, Freedom, and Liberty.

Cassius. Stoop then, and wash. How many Ages hence
Shall this our lofty Scene be acted over,
In State unborn, and Accents yet unknown?

Brutus. How many times shall Cesar bleed in sport?
That now on Pompey's Basis lye along,
No worthier then the dust?

Cassius. So oft as that shall be,
So often shall the knot of us be call'd,
The Men that gave their Country Liberty.

Decius. What, shall we forth?

Cassius. I, every Man away.

Brutus shall lead, and we will grace his heels
With the most boldest, and best hearts of Rome.

Enter a Servant.

Servant. Thus Brutus did my Master bid me kneel;
Thus did Mark Antony bid me fall down,
And being prostrate, thus he bid me say:
Brutus is Noble, Wife, Valiant, and Honest;
Cesar was mighty, Bold, Royal, and Loving:
Say, I love Brutus, and I honour him;
Say, I fear'd Cesar, honour'd him, and lov'd him.
If Brutus will vouchsafe, that Antony
May safely come to him, and be revolv'd
How Cesar hath deserv'd to lye in death,
Mark Antony shall not love Cesar dead
So well as Brutus living; but will follow
The Fortunes and Affairs of Noble Brutus,
Through the hazards of this untrod State,
With all true Faith. So says my Master Antony.

Brutus. Thy Master is a Wise Valiant Roman,
I never thought him worse:
Tell him, to please him come unto this place.
He shall be satisfied: and by my Honour
Depart untouch'd:

Ser. I'll fetch him presently.

Bru. I know that we shall have him well to Friend.

Cafl. I wish we may: But yet have I a mind
That fears him much: and my misgiving still Falls shrewdly to the purpose.

Enter Antony.

Bru. But here comes Antony.

Welcome Mark Antony.

Ant. O mighty Caesar! Doft thou lie so low?
Are all Conquests, Glories, Triumphs, Spoils,
Shrunk to this little Measure? Fare thee well.
I know not Gentlemen what you intend,
Who else must be let blood, who else is rank:
If I my self, there is no hour so fit,
As Caesar's death hour; nor no Instrument
Of half that worth, as those your Swords; made rich
With the most noble blood of all this World.
I do beseech yee, if you bear me hard,
Now, whilst your purpled hand do reek and smoak,
Fulfil your pleasure. Live a Thousand years,
I shall not find my self so apt to dye.
No place will please me so, no mean of death,
As here by Caesar, and by you cut off,
The Choice and Master Spirits of this Age.

Bru. O Antony! Beg not your death of us:
Though now we must appear bloody and cruel,
As by our Hands, and this our present act
You see we do: Yet see you but our hands,
And this, the bleeding Business they have done,
Our hearts you see not, they are pittiful.
And pitty to the general wrong to Roman,
As fire drives out fire, so pitty, pitty
Hath done this deed on Caesar: for your part,
To you, our Swords hath leaden points Mark Antony:
Our Arms in strength of malice, and our hearts
Of brothers temper, do receive you in,
With all kind love, good thoughts and reverence.

Cafl. Your voice shall be as strong as any mans,
In the disposing of new Dignities.

Bru. Only be patient, till we have appeas'd
The Multitude, beside themselves with fear,
And then we will deliver you the cause,
Why I, that did love Caesar when I strook him,
Have thus proceeded.

Ant. I doubt not of your Wisdom.
Let each man render me his bloody hand,
First Marcus Brutus will I shake with you;
Next Caius Cassius do I take your hand;
Now Decius Brutus yours? now yours Metellus;
Yours Cinna; and my valiant Caska, yours;
Though last, not least in love, yours good Trebonius.

Gentlemen all: Alas, what shall I say?
My credit now stands on such slippery ground,
That one of two bad ways you must conclude me,
Either a Coward or a Flatterer.
That I did love thee Caesar, 'tis true:
If then thy Spirit look upon us now,
Shall it not grieve thee dearer then thy death,
To see thy Antony making his peace,
Shaking the bloody fingers of thy Foes?
Most Noble, in the presence of thy Courage,
Had I as many eyes, as thou hast wounds,
Weeping as fast as they stream forth thy blood,
It would become me better, then to close
In terms of Friendship with thine enemies.
Pardon me Julius, here waft thou bay'd brave Hart
Here didst thou fall, and here thy Hunters stand
Sign'd in thy Spoil, Crimson'd in thy Lethee.
O World! thou waft the Forest to this Hart,
And this indeed, O World! the Hart of thee.
How like a Deer, stroken by many Princes,
Dost thou here lye?

Cassi. Mark Antony.

Ant. Pardon me Caius Cassius:
The Enemies of Caesar shall say this:
Then, in a Friend, it is cold Modesty:

Cass. I blame you not for praising Caesar so,
But what compact mean you to have with us?
Will you be prick'd in number of our Friends,
Or shall we on, and not depend on you?

Ant. Therefore I took your hands, but was indeed
Sway'd from the point, by looking down on Caesar.
Friends am I with you all, and love you all,
Upon this hope, that you shall give me Reasons,
Why and wherein, Caesar was dangerous.

Brut. Or else were this a savage Spectacle,
Our Reasons are so full of good regard,
That were you Antony, the Son of Caesar,
You shall be satisfied.
That's all I seek, and am moreover tutor, that I may produce his body to the Market-place, and in the Pulpit as becomes a friend, speak in the order of his funeral.

Brutus. You shall Mark Antony.

Casca. Brutus, a word with you:
You know not what you do, do not consent that Antony speak in his funeral:

Know you how much the people may be mov'd by that which he will utter?

Brutus. By your pardon:
I will my self into the Pulpit first,

And shew the reason of our Cæsar's death.

What Antony shall speak, I will protest he speaks by leave, and by permission:

And that we are contented Cæsar shall have all true rites, and lawful ceremonies, it shall advantage more, then do us wrong.

Casca. I know not what may fall, I like it not.

Brutus. Mark Antony, here take you Cæsar's body:

You shall not in your funeral speech blame us, but speak all good you can devise of Cæsar, and say you don't by our permission:

Eile shall you not have any hand at all about his funeral, and you shall speak in the same Pulpit where to I am going, after my speech is ended.

Antony. Be it so:
I do desire no more.

Brutus. Prepare the body then, and follow us. Exeunt.

Manet Antony

O pardon me thou bleeding piece of Earth:
That I am meek and gentle with these Butchers.

Thou art the Ruins of the Noblest man,

That ever lived in the Tide of Times.

Woe to the hand that shed this costly Blood.

Over thy wounds, now do I prophesie.

(Which like dumb mouths do ope their Ruby lips, to beg the voice and utterance of my Tongue)

A Curse shall light upon the limbs of men;

Domestick Fury, and fierce Civil strife,

Shall cumber all the parts of Italy:

Blood and destruction shall be so in use;

And dreadful Objects so familiar,

That Mothers shall but smile; when they behold...
Their Infants quartered with the Hands of War:
All pity choke'd with Custom of foul deeds,
And Cæsar's Spirit ranging for Revenge,
With Ate by his side, come hot from Hell,
Shall in these Confines with a Monarchs Voice,
Cry havoc, and let slip the Dogs of War,
That this foul deed, shall smell above the Earth
With Carrion men, groaning for Burial.

Enter Octavius's Servant

You serve Octavius Cæsar, do you not?
Ser. I do Mark Antony.
Ant. Cæsar, did write for him to come to Rome.
Ser. He did receive his Letters, and is coming,
And bid me say to you by word of mouth
O Cæsar!
Ant. Thy heart is big: get thee a-part and weep:
Passion I see is catching from mine Eyes,
Seeing those Beads of sorrow ftand in thine,
Begin to water. Is thy Master coming?
Ser. He lies to night within seven Leagues of Rome.
Ant. Post back with speed,
And tell him what hath chanc'd:
Here is a mourning Rome, a dangerous Rome.
No Rome of safety for Octavius yet,
Hye hence, and tell him so. Yet stay a while,
Thou shalt not back, till I have born this course:
Into the Market-place: There shall I try
In my Oration, how the People take
The cruel Issue of these bloody men;
According to the which thou shalt discourse
To young Octavius, of the state of things.
Lend me your hand.

Enter Brutus and goes into the Pulpit, and Cassius with the Plebians

Ple. We will be satisfied: let us be satisfied.
Bru. Then follow me, and give me Audience Friends.
Cassius go you into the other street,
And the Numbers:
Those that will hear me speak, let them stay here;
Those that will follow Cassius, go with him,
And publick Reasons shall be rendred
Of Cæsar's death.
1. Pel. I will hear Brutus speak,
2. I will hear Caesar, and compare their Reasons,

When severally we hear them rendred.

3. The Noble Brutus is ascended: Silence.

Brut. Be patient till the last.

Romans, Country-men, and Lovers. hear me for my cause, and be silent that you may here, Believe me for mine Honour, and have respect to mine Honour, that you may Believe, Censure me in your Wisdom, and awake your Senses, that you may the better Judge: If there be any in this Assembly, any dear Friend of Caesar's, to him I say, that Brutus love to Caesar, was no less then his. If then that Friend demand, why Brutus rose against Caesar, this is my Answer: Not that I lov'd Caesar less, but that I lov'd Rome more. Had you rather Caesar were living, and dye all Slaves; then that Caesar were dead, to live all Free-men? As Caesar lov'd me, I weep for him; as he was Fortunate, I rejoice at it; as he was Valiant, I honour him; But as he was Ambitious, I flew him. There is Tears, for his love: Joy, for his Fortune: Honour, for his Valour: And Death for his Ambition. Who is here so base, that would be a Bondman? If any, speak, for him have I offended. Who is here so rude, that would not be a Roman? If any, speak, for him have I offended. Who is here so vile, that will not love his Country? If any, speak, for him have I offended. I pause for a Reply.

All. None Brutus, none.

Brut. Then none have I offended. I have done no more to Caesar, then you shall do to Brutus. The Question of his death, is inroll'd in the Capitol; his Glory not extenuated, wherein he was worthy; nor his offences enforc'd, for which he suffered death.

Enter Mark Antony, with Caesar's body.

Here comes his Body, mourn'd by Mark Antony, who though he had no hand in his death, shall receive the benefit of his dying, a Place in the Common-wealth, as which of you shall not? With this I depart, that as I flew my best Lover for the good of Rome, I have the same Dagger for my self, when it shall please my Country to need my death.

All. Live Brutus, live, live.

1. Bring him with Triumph home unto his House;
2. Give him a Statue with his Ancestors.
3. Let him be Caesar.
4. Caesar's better parts

Shall be Crown'd in Brutus.

1. We'll bring him to his House,
With Shouts and Clamours.

2. Peace, Silence, Brutus speaks.

1. Peace ho.

Cæsar.

Brutus. Good Countrymen, let me depart alone,
And (for my sake) stay here with Antony:
Do grace to Cæsar's Corps, and grace his Speech
Tending to Cæsar's Glories, which Mark Antony
(By our permission) is allow'd to make,
I do intreat you, not a Man depart,
Save I alone till Antony have spoke.

1. Stay ho, and let us hear Mark Antony.
2. Let him go up into the publick Chair,
We'll hear him: Noble Antony go up.

Antony. For Brutus fake, I am beholding to you.
3. What does he say of Brutus?
4. He says for Brutus fake
He finds himself beholding to us all.

4. 'Twere best he spake no harm of Brutus here?

1. This Cæsar was a Tyrant.
3. Nay that's certain:
We are blest that Rome is rid of him.
2. Peace, let us hear what Antony can say.

Ant. You gentle Romans.
All. Peace ho, let us hear him.

Ant. Friends, Romans, Countrymen, lend me your Ears;
I come to bury Cæsar, not to praise him:
The evil that men do, lives after them,
The good is oft entered with their bones,
So let it be with Cæsar: The Noble Brutus,
Hath told you Cæsar was Ambitious:
If it were so it was a grievous Fault.
And grievously hath Cæsar answer'd it.
Here under leave of Brutus, and the rest
(For Brutus is an Honourable man,
So are they all; all Honourable men)
Come I speak in Cæsar's Funeral.
He was my Friend, faithful and just to me;
But Brutus says, he was Ambitious,
And Brutus is an Honourable man.
He hath brought many Captives home to Rome;
Whose Ransoms did the general Coffers fill:
Did this in Cæsar seem Ambitious?
When that the Poor have cry'd, Cæsar hath wept:
Ambition should be made of sterner stuff,
Yet Brutus says he was Ambitious:
And Brutus is an Honourable man.
You all did see, that on the Lupercall,
I thrice presented him a Kingly Crown:
Which he did thrice refuse. Was this Ambition?
Yet Brutus says he was Ambitious.
And sure he is an Honourable man.
I speak not to disprove what Brutus spoke,
But here I am to speak what I do know;
You all did love him once, not without cause,
What cause with-holds you then, to mourn for him?
O Judgment! thou art fled to brutish Beasts,
And Men have lost their Reason. Bear with me
My heart is in the Coffin there with Cæsar,
And I must pause, till it come back to me.
1. Methinks their is much reason in his Sayings.
2. If thou consider rightly of the matter,
Cæsar has had great wrong.
3. Has he Masters? I fear there will a worse come in his place.
4. Mark'd yea his words? he would not take the Crown,
Therefore'tis certain, he was not Ambitious.
1. If it be found so, some will near abide it.
2. Poor soul, his Eyes are red as fire with weeping.
3. There's not a Nobler man in Rome than Antony.
4. Now mark him, he begins again to speak.

Ant. But yesterday, the word of Cæsar might Have stood against the World: Now lies he there;
And none so poor to do him reverence.
O Masters! if I were disposed to stir
Your hearts and minds to Mutiny and Rage,
I should do Brutus wrong, and Cælius wrong:
Who (you all know) are Honourable men.
I will not do them wrong: I rather choose
To wrong the dead, to wrong my self and you,
Then I will wrong such Honourable men.
But here's a Parchment, with the Seal of Cæsar,
I found it in his Closet, 'tis his Will:
Let but the Commons here his Testament:
(Which pardon me) I do not mean to read,
And they would go and kils dead Cæsar’s wounds:
And dip their Napkins in his Sacred Blood;
Yea, beg a hair of him for Memory.
And dying, mention it within their Wills,
Bequeathing it as a rich Legacy
Unto their Issue.

4. We'll hear the Will, read it Mark Antony.

All. The Will, the Will; we will hear Cæsar’s Will.
Ant. Have patience gentle Friends, I must not read it.
It is not meet you know how Cæsar lov'd you:
You are not Wood, you are not Stones, but Men:
And being Men, hearing the Will of Cæsar
It will inflame you, it will make you mad;
’Tis good you know not that you are his Heirs,
For If you should, O what will come of it?

4. Read the Will, we'll hear it Antony:
You shall read us the Will, Cæsar’s Will.

Ant. Will you be patient? Will you stay a while;
I have o’re shot my self to tell you of it,
I fear I wrong the Honourable men,
Whose Daggers have stab’d Cæsar: I do fear it.

4. They were Traitors: Honourable men?
All. The Will, the Testament.

2. They were Villains, and Murderers: the Will, read the Will.
Ant. You will compel me then to read the Will:
Then make a Ring about the Corps of Cæsar.
And let me shew you him that made the Will;
Shall I descend? And will you give me leave?

All. Come down.
2. Descend.
3. You shall have leave.
4. A Ring, stand Round.
1. Stand from the Hearse, stand from the Body:
2. Room for Antony, most Noble Antony.
Ant. Nay not so upon me, stand far off.
All. Stand back, room, bear back.
Ant. If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.

You all do know this Mantle; I remember
The first time ever Cæsar put it on,
’Twas on a Summers Evening in his Tent,
That Day he overcame the Ner vi i.
Look, in the place ran Cassius Daggar through:
See what a rent the envious Caska made:
Through this, the well beloved Brutus stab’d,
And as he pluck’d his cursed Steel away:
Mark how the blood of Cæsar follow’d it,
As rushing out of doors, to be resolv’d
If Brutus, so unkindly knock’d or no:
For Brutus, as you know, was Cæsar’s Angel.
Judge, O ye Gods, how dearly Cæsar lov’d him,
This was the most unkind cut of all.
For when the Noble Cæsar saw him stab,
Ingratitude, more strong than Traitors arms,
Quite vanquish’d him then burst his mighty heart,
And in his Mantle, Musling up his face,
Even at the Base of Pompey’s Statue
(Which all the while ran Blood) great Cæsar fell.
O what a fall was there, my Country-men?
Then I, and you, and all of us down,
Whil't bloody Treason flourish'd over us,
O now you weep, and I perceive you feel The dint of pitty: These are gracious drops.
Kind Souls, what weep you, when you but behold
Our Cæsar's Vesture wounded? Look you here,
Here is Himself, mar'd as you see with Traitors.

1. O pityous spectacle!
2. O Noble Cæsar!
3. O woful day!
4. O Traitors, Villains!

1. O most bloody fight!
2. We will be reveng'd: Revenge
About, seek, burn, fire, kill, slay,
Let not a Traitor live.

1. Peace there, hear Noble Antony.
2. We'll hear him, we'll follow him, we'll die with him.

Ant. Good Friends, sweet Friends, let me not stir you up.

To such a sudden Flood of Mutiny
They that have done this Deed, are Honourable.
What private griefs they have, alas, I know not.
That made them do it: They are Wise, and Honourable,
And will no doubt with Reasons answer you.
I come not (Friends) to steal away your hearts,
I am no Orator, as Brutus is;
But (as you know me all) a plane blunt man:
That love my Friend, and that they know full well
That gave me publick leave to speak of him:
For I have neither writ, nor words, nor worth.
Action, nor Utterance, nor the power of speech,

To stir mens Bloods, I only speak right on:
I tell you that which you yourselves do know,
Shew you sweet Cæsar wounds; poor, poor, dumb mouths,

And bid them speak for me: But were I Brutus,
And Brutus Antony, there were an Antony

Would ruffle your Spirits, and put a Tongue
In every wound of Cæsar, that should move
The stones of Rome, to rise and Mutiny.

All. We'll Mutiny.

1. We'll burn the house of Brutus.
3. Away then come, seek the Conspirators,

Ant. Yet hear me Country-men yet hear me speak.

All. Peace ho, hear Antony, most noble Antony.

Ant. Why Friends, you go to do you know not what;

Wherein hath Cæsar thus deserv'd your loves?
Alas you know not, I must tell you then:
You have forgot the Will I told you of

All. Most true, the Will, let's stay and here the Will.

Ant. Here is the Will, and under Cæsar's Seal.

To every Roman Citizen he gives,
To every several man, seventy five Drachmae.

2. Ple. Most Noble Cæsar, we'll revenge his death.

Ant. Hear me with Patience.

All. Peace ho.

Ant. Moreover he has left you all his Walks,
His private Arbors, and new-planted Orchards,
On this side Tyber, he hath left them you,
And to your Heirs for ever: common Pleasures
To walk abroad and Recreate your selves.
Here was a Cæsar: when comes such another?

1. Ple. Never, never, come, away, away:
We'll burn this Body in the Holy Place,
And with the Brands fire the Traytors houses.
Take up the Body.

2. Go fetch fire.

3. Pluck down Benches.

Ant. Now let it work: Mischief thou art a-foot,
Take thou what course thou wilt.

How now Fellow?

Enter Servant.

Ser. Sir, Octavius is already come to Rome,
Ant. Where is he?

Ser. He and Lepidus are at Cæsar's house.
Ant. And thither will I straight to visit him.

He comes upon a wish, Fortune is merry,
And in this mood will give us any thing.

Ser. I heard him say, Brutus and Cassius
Are rid like Madmen through the Gates of Rome.

Ant. Belike they had some notice of the People,
How I had moved them, Bring me to Octavius. Exeunt

Enter Cinna the Poet, and after him the Plebians.

Cinna. I dreamt to night, that I did feast with Cæsar.
And things unluckily charge my Fantastie:
I have no will to wander forth to day,
Yet something leads me forth.
1. What is your name?
2. Whether are you going?
3. Where do you dwell?
4. Are you a Married Man, or a Batchellor?
1. I, and briefly.
4. I, and wisely.
3. I, and truly, you were best.

Cin. What is my Name? Whither am I going? Where do I dwell? Am I a married man or a Batchellor? Then to answer every Man directly and briefly, wisely and truly: wisely I say I am a Batchellor.
2. That's as much as to say, they are Fools that marry; you'll bear me a Bang for that I fear: proceed directly.

Cinna. Directly I am going to Caesar's Funeral.
1. As a Friend, or an Enemy?

Cinna. As a Friend.
2. That matter is answered directly.
4. For your dwelling; briefly.

Cinna. Briefly, I dwell by the Capitol.
3. Your Name Sir, truly.

Cinna. Truly, my Name is Cinna.
1. Tear him to pieces, he's a Conspirator.

Cin. I am Cinna the Poet, I am Cinna the Poet.
1. Tear him for his bad Verbes, tear him for his bad Verbes.

Cin. I am not Cinna the Conspirator.
4. It is no matter, his Name's Cinna, pluck but his Name out of his Heart, and turn him going.
3. Tear him, tear him; Come, Brands ho, Firebrands; to Brutus, to Cassius, burn all. Some to Decius's House, and some to Caska's, some to Ligarius. Away go. Exeunt all the Plebians.

Actus Quartus.

Enter Antony, Octavius, and Lepidus.

Ant. These Men then shall dye, their Names are prick'd.
Octa. Your Brother too must dye; content you Lepidus
Lep. I do content.

Octa. Prick him down Antony.
Lep. Upon Condition Publius shall not live,
Who is your Sister's Son, Mark Antony.

Ant. He
Ant. He shall not live; look, with a Spot I damn him.

But Lepidus, go you to Cæsar's house:
Fetch the Will hither, and we shall determine
How to cut off some Charge in Legacies.

Lep. What? shall I find you here?

Ofta. Or here, or at the Capitol.

Ant. This is a flight unmeritable man,
Meet to be sent on Errands: it is fit
The three-fold World divided, he should stand
One of the three to share it?

Ofta. So you though him,
And took his Voice who should be prick'd to dye
In our black Sentence and Proscription.

Ant. Octavius, I have seen more days than you;
And though we lay these Honours on this Man,
To ease our selves of divers fland'rous Loads,
He shall but bear them, as the As bears Gold,
To groan and sweat under the Business,
Either lead or driven, as we point the way:
And having brought our Treasure, where we will,
Then take we down his Load, and turn him off
(Like to the empty As) to shake his Ears,
And graze in Common.

Ofta. You may do your Will:
But he's a tried, and valiant Souldier.

Ant. So is my Horse Octavius, and for that I do appoint him store of Provender.
It is a Creature that I teach to fight,
To wind, to stop run directly on:
His corporal motion, govern'd by my Spirit,
And in some taft, is Lepidus but so;
He must be taught, and train'd, and bid go forth:
A barren spirited Fellow, one that feeds
On Objems, Arts and Imitations.
Which out of use, and ftailed by other Men,
Begin his Fashion. Do not take of him,
But as a Property: and now Octavius,
Listen great things. Brutus and Cassius
Are levying Powers: We must straight make head:
Therefore let our Alliance be combin'd,
Our best Friends made, our means stretch'd,
And let us presently go fit in Council,
How covert matters may be best disclos'd,
And open Perils sureft answer'd.

Ofta. Let us do so: for we are at the Stake,
And bayed about with many Enemies,
And some that smile have in their Hearts I fear
Millions of mischiefs.

Drum. Enter Brutus, Lucullus, and the Army. Titinius and Pindarus meets them.

Brut. Stand ho.

Lucillius. Give the Word ho, and stand.

Brut. What now Lucullius, is Cassius near?

Lucillius. He is at hand, and Pindarus is come

To do you Salutation from his Minster.

Brut. He greets me well. Your Master Pindarus
In his own Charge, or by ill Officers,
Hath given me some worthy cause to wish,
Things done, undone: But if he be at hand
I shall be satisfied.

Pindarus. I do not doubt
But that my Noble Master will appear
Such as he is, full of Regard and Honour.

Brut. He is not doubted. A word Lucilius,
How he receiv’d you: let me be resolv’d.

Lucillius. With Courtesie, and with Respect enough,
But not with such familiar Instances,
Nor with such free and friendly Conference
As he hath us’d of old.

Brut. Thou hast describ’d
A hot Friend, cooling: Ever note Lucilius;
When Love begins to sicken and decay,
It useth an enforced Ceremony.
There are no tricks in plain and simple Faith:
But hollow men, like Horses hot at hand,
Make gallant shew, and promise of their Mettle:

Low March within.

But when they should endure the bloody Spur,
They fall their Crefts, and like deceitful Jades, Sink in the Trial. Come his Army on?

Lucilius. They mean this Night in Sardis to be quarter’d:
The great part, the Horse in general
Are come with Cassius.

Enter Cassius and his Powers.

Brut. Hark, he is arriv’d;
March gently on to meet him.

Cassius. Stand ho.

Brut. Stand ho, speak the Word along,

Stand.
Stand.
Stand.
Coffi. Most Noble Brother you have done me wrong.
Bru. Judge me you Gods; wrong I mine Enemies?
And if not so, how should I wrong a Brother?
Coffi. Brutus, this sober Form of yours hides Wrongs.
And when you do them——
Bru. Coffius, be content:
Speak your griefs softly, I do know you well.
Before the eyes of both our Armies here,
(Which should perceive nothing but Love from us)
Let us not wrangle. Bid them move away:
Then in my Tent Coffius enlarge your Grieves,
And I will give you Audience.
Coffi. Vindarus,
Bid our Commanders lead their Charges off
A little from this Ground.
Bru. Lucius, do you the like, and let no Man
Come to our Tent, till we have done our Conference.
Let Lucius and Titinius guard our door.

{Execution}

Coffi. That you have wrong’d me, doth appear in this:
You have condemn’d, and noted Lucius Pella
For taking Bribes here of the Sardians;
Wherein my Letters, praying on his side,
Because I knew the Man was flighted off:
Bru. You wrong’d your self to write in such a Case.
Coffi. In such a time as this, it is not meet
That every nice Offence should bear his Comment.
Bru. Let me tell you Coffius, you your self
Are much condemn’d to have an itching Palm,
To sell, and mart your Offices for Gold,
To Undeservers.
Caffius. I an itching Palm?
You know that you are Brutus that speaks this,
Or by the Gods, this Speech were else your last.
Bru. The Name of Coffius honours this Corruption,
And Chastifement doth therefore hide his Head.
Coffi. Chastifement?
Bru. Remember March, the Ides of March remember:
Did not great Julius bleed for Justice sake?
What Villain touch’d his Body, that did stab,
And not for Justice? What? Shall one of Us,
That struck the fore-most man of all this World,
But for supporting Robbers; shall we now,
Contaminate our Fingers with base Bribes?
And sell the mighty Space of our large Honours,
For so much Trash as may be grasped thus?
JULIUS

I had rather be a Dog, and bay the Moon,
Than such a Roman.

Cass. Brutus; bait not me,
I'll not endure it: you forget your self
To hedge me in. I am a Souldier, I,
Older in Practice, abler than your self
To make Conditions.

Bru. Go too, you are not Cassius.

Cass. I am.

Bru. I say you are not.

Cass. Urge me no more, I shall forget my self;
Have mind upon your Health: Tempt me no farther.

Bru. Away slight man.

Cass. Is't possible;

Bru. Hear me, for I will speak.

Must I give way and room to your rash Choler?
Shall I be frighted when a Mad-man flares?

Cass. O ye Gods, ye Gods, Must I endure all this?

Bru. All this? I more: Fret till your proud Heart break.
Go shew your Slaves how cholerick you are,
And make your Bondmen tremble, must I bow?

Must I observe you? Must I stand and crouch
Under your tefty Humour? By the Gods,
You shall digest the Venom of your Spleen,
Though it do split you. For, from this day forth,
I'll use you for my Mirth, ye for my Laughter,
When you are Wafpish.

Cass. Is it come to this?

Bru. You say, you are a better Souldier:
Let it appear so; make your vaunting true,
And it shall please me well. For my own part,
I shall be glad to learn of Noble-men,

Cass. You wrong me every way:
You wrong me Brutus:
I said, an Elder Souldier, not a Better
Did I say Better?

Bru. If you did, I care not.

Cass. When Caesar liv'd, he durft not thus have mov'd me.

Bru. Peace, Peace, you durft not so have tempted him.

Cass. I durft not?

Bru. No.

Cass. What! durft not tempt him?

Bru. For your Life you durft not.

Cass. Do not presume too much upon my Love,
I may do that I shall be sorry for

Bru. You
Bru. You have done that you should be sorry for:
There is no Terror Cassius in your Threats:
For I am arm'd so strong in Honesty.
That they pass by me, as the idle Wind,
Which I respect not, I did send to you
For certain Sums of Gold, which you deny'd me.
For I can raise no Money by vile means:
By Heavens, I had rather Coin my Heart,
And drop my Blood for Drachmaes, than to wring
From the hard hands of Peasants, their vile Trash
By any Indirection. I did send
To you for Gold to pay my Legions,
Which you deny'd me: was that done like Cassius?
Should I have answer'd Caius Cassius so?
When Marcus Brutus grows so Covetous,
To lock such Rascal Counters from his Friends,
Be readie Gods, with all your Thunder-bolts,
Dash him to pieces.

Cassi. I deny'd you not.

Bru. You did.

Cassi. I did not, He was but a Fool
That brought my Answer back. Brutus hath riev'd my heart.
A Friend should bear his Infirmities;
But Brutus makes mine greater than they are.

Bru. I do not, till you practice them on me.

Cassi. You love me not.

Bru. I do not like your Faults.

Cassi. A Friendly Eye could never see such Faults.

Bru. A Flatterers would not, though they do appear
As huge as high Olympus.

Cassi. Come Antony, and young Octavius come,
Revenge your selves alone on Cassius,
For Cassius is a-weary of the World:
Hated by one he loves, brav'd by his Brother,
Cheek'd like a bond-man, all his Faults observ'd,
Set in a Note Book, learn'd, and con'd by roat
To cast into my Teeth. O I could weep
My Spirits from my Eyes. There is my Dagger,
And here my naked Breast; Within, a Heart
Dearer than Pluto's Mine, richer than Gold,
If that thou beest a Roman, take it forth.
I that deny'd thee Gold, will give my Heart;
Strike as thou didst at Cesar; For I know,
When thou didst hate him worse, thou loved'st him better
Than ever thou love'st Cassius.
BRU. Sheath your Dagger:
Be angry when you will, it shall have Scope:
Do what you will, Dishonour shall be Humour.
O Cassius, you are voaked with a Lamb
That carries Anger, as the Flint bears Fire,
Who much inforced, shews a hasty Spark,
And strait is cold again.
Cassi. Hath Cassius liv'd
To be but Mirth and Laughter to his Brutus,
When Grief and Blood ill temper'd vexeth him?
BRU. When I spoke that, I was ill temper'd too:
Cassi. Do you confess so much? give me your Hand.
BRU. And my Heart too.
Cassi. O Brutus.
BRU. What's the matter?
Cassi. Have not you Love enough to bear with me,
When that rash Humour which my Mother gave me
Makes me forgetful?
BRU. Yes Cassius, and from henceforth,
When you are over-earnest with your Brutus,
He'll think your Mother chides, and leave you so.

Enter a Poet.

Poet. Let me go in to see the Generals;
There is some Grudg between 'em, 'tis not meet
They be alone.
LUCIL. You shall not come to them.
Poet. Nothing but Death shall stay me.
Cassi. How now? what's the matter?
Poet. For shame you Generals; what do you mean?
Love and be Friends: as two such Men should be,
For I have seen more years I'm sure than ye.
Cassi. Ha, ha, how vilely doth this Cynick Rhyme?
BRU. Get you hence Sirrah: Saucy Fellow, hence.
Cassi. Bear with him Brutus, 'tis his Fashion;
BRU. I'll know his humour, when he knows his time:
What should the Wars do with these Jigging Fools?
Companion, hence.
Cassi. Away, away, be gone.
Exit Poet.

BRU. Lucilius and Titinius, bid the Commanders
Prepare to lodge their Companies to night.
Cassi. And come your selves, and bring Messala with you Immediately to us.
BRU. Lucius, a Bowl of Wine.
Cassi.
Caffi. I did not think you could have been so angry.

Bru. O Caffius, I am sick of many Gries.

Caffi. Of your Philosophy you make no use,

If you give place to accidental Evils.

Bru. No man bears Sorrow better, Portia is dead.

Caffi. Ha! Portia?

Bru. She is dead.

Caffi. How fceap'd I killing, when I croft you fo?

O intupportable and touching los!

Upon what Sicknefs?

Bru. Impatient of my absence.

And grief, that young Oktavius with Mark Antony,

Have made themselves fo strong: For with her death

That Tidings came. With this she fell distracted,

And (her Attendants absent) swallow'd fire.

Caffi. And dy'd fo?

Bru. Even fo.

Caffi. O ye immortal Gods!

Enter Boy with Wine and Tapers.

Bru. Speak no more of her; Give me a Bowl of Wine,

In this I bury all Unkinnefs Caffius.

Caffi. My heart is thirfty for that noble pledge.

Fill Lucius, till the Wine o're-swell the Cup?

I cannot drink too much of Brutus Love.

Enter Titinius and Messella.

Bru. Come in Titinius;

Welcome good Messella;

Now fit we close about this Taper here,

And call in question our Neceffities.

Caffi. Portia, art thou gone?

Bru. No more I pray you.

Messella, I have here received Letters,

That young Oktavius, and Mark Antony,

Come down upon us with a mighty Power,

Bending there Expedition toward Philippi

Mess. My self have Letters of the felf fame Tenure.

Bru. With what Addition?

Mess. That by Prscription, and bills of Outlary

Oktavius, Antony, and Lepidus.

Have put to Death an hundred Senators.

Bru. Therein our Letters do not well agree:

Mine speak of seventy Senators that dy'd

By there Procriptions, Cicero being one.

Caffi.
Cass. Cicero one?
Messa. Cicero is dead, and by that order of Proscription
Had you your Letters from your Wife, my Lord?

• Brn. No Messa.
Messa. Nor nothing in your Letters writ of her?
Brn. Nothing Messa.
Messa. That methinks is strange.
Brn. Why ask you?

Hear you ought of her in yours?
Messa. No my Lord.
Brn. Now as you are a Roman tell me true.
Messa. Then like a Roman, bear the Truth I tell.
For certan she is dead, and by strange manner.
Brn. Why Farewel Portia We must dye Messala:
With meditating that she must dye once.
I have the Patience to endure it now.
Messa. Even so great Men great Losses should endure.
Cass. I have as much of this in Art as you,
But yet my Nature could not bear it so.
Brn. Well, to your Work alive. What do you think
Of marching to Philippi presently.
Cass. I do not think it good.
Brn. Your reason?
Cass. This it is:
'Tis better that the Enemy seek us,
So shall he waste his Means weary his Souldiers,
Doing himself offence, whilst we lying Still
Are full to Rest, Defence, and Nimblenes.
Brn. Good Reasons must of force give place to better:
The People 'twixt Philippi and this Ground,
Do stand but in a forc'd affection:
For they have grudg'd us Contribution.
The Enemy, marching along by them,
By them shall make a fuller number up,
Come on refreshed, new added, and encourag'd;
From which advantage shall we cut him off;
If at Philippi we do face him their,
These People at our back.
Cass. Hear me good Brother.
Brn. Under your pardon. You must note beside,
That we have try'd the utmost of our Friends:
Our Legions are brim full, our Cause is ripe,
The Enemy encreaseth every day,
We at the height, are ready to decline.
There is a Tide in the Affairs of Men
Which taken at the Flood, leads on to Fortune;

Omitted,
Omitted, all the Voyage of their Life
Is bound in Shallows, and in Miseries.
On such a full Sea are we now a-float,
And we must take the Current when it serves,
Or lose our Ventures.

_Cass._ Then with your Will, go on? we'll along
Our selves, and meet them at Philippi.

_Bru._ The deep of Night is crept upon our Talk,
And Nature must obey Necessity
Which we will niggard with a little Rest:
There is no more to say.

_Cass._ No more, good night,
Early to morrow will we rise, and hence.

_Enter Lucius._

_Bru._ Lucius, my Gown Farewel good Messala,
Good night Titinius; Noble Cassius,
Good night, and good repose.

_Cass._ O my dear Brother;
This was an ill beginning of the Night;
Never come such Division 'tween our Souls:
Let it not Brutus.

_Enter Lucius with the Gown._

_Bru._ Every thing is well.

_Cass._ Good night my Lord.

_Bru._ Good night good Brother.

_Tit._ Messala. Good night Lord Brutus.

_Bru._ Farewel every one.

_Give me the Gown._ Where is thy Instrument?

_Luc._ Here in the Tent.

_Bru._ What, thou speakeft drowsily;
 Poor Knave, I blame thee not, thou art o're-watch'd.
Call Claudio, and some other of my Men,
I'll have them sleep on Cushions in my Tent.

_Luc._ Varrus, and Claudio?

_Enter Varrus and Claudio._

_Var._ Calls my Lord?

_Bru._ I pray you Sirs, lye in my Tent and sleep.
It may be I shall raise you by and by
On business to my Brother Cassius.

_Var._ So
Var. So please you, we will stand,
And watch your Pleasure.

Bru. I will not have it so: Lye down good Sirs,
It may be I shall otherwise bethink me.
Look Lucius, here's the Book I fought for so:
I put it in the Pocket of my Gown.

Luc. I was sure your Lordship did not give it me.

Bru. Bear with me, good Boy, I am much forgetful.
Can't thou hold up thy heavy eyes a while,
And touch thy Instrument a Strain or two.

Luc. I my Lord, can't please you.

Bru. It does, my Boy:
I trouble thee too much, but thou art willing.

Luc. It is my Duty, Sir.

Bru. I should not urge thy Duty past thy Might,
I know young Bloods look for a time of rest.

Luc. I have slept my Lord already.

Bru. It was well done, and thou shalt sleep again:
I will not hold thee long. If I do live,
I will be good to thee.

Musick and a Song.
This is a sleepy Tune: O murd'rous Slumber!
Layest thou thy leaden Mace upon my Boy,
That plays the Musick? Gentle Knave good night:
I will not do thee too much wrong to wake thee:
If thou dost nod, thou break'st thy Instrument,
I'll take it from thee, and (good Boy) good night:
Let me see, let me see; is not the Leaf turn'd down
Where I left reading? Here it is, I think.

Enter the Ghost of Cæsar.

How ill this Toper burns. Ha! Who comes here?
I think it is the weakness in mine Eyes.
That shapes this monstrous Apparition.
It comes upon me: Art thou any thing;
Art thou some God, some Angel, or some Devil,
That makest my Blood cold, and my Hair to flare?
Speak to me, what thou art.

Ghost. Thy evil Spirit Brutus.

Bru. Why com'ft thou?

Ghost. To tell thee thou shalt see me at Philippi.

Bru. Well: then I shall see thee again?

Ghost. I, at Philippi.

Bru. Why I will see thee at Philippi then:
Now I have taken Heart thou vanishest.
Fil'spirit, I would hold more talk with thee.

Boy, Lucius, Claudio, Sirs, Awake:

Claudio.

Luc. The Strings, my Lord, are false.

Bru. He thinks he still is at his Instrument;

Lucius, awak.

Luc. My Lord.

Bru. Did'st thou dream, Lucius, that thou so cryed'st out.

Luc. My Lord, I do not know that I did cry.

Bru. Yes that thou did'st; Did'st thou see any thing?

Luc. Nothing, my Lord.

Bru. Sleep again Lucius : Sirrah, Claudio, Fellow,

Thou: Awake.

Vaf. My Lord.

Clau. My Lord.

Bru. Why did you so cry out Sirs, in your Sleep?

Both. Did we, my Lord?

Bru. I, saw you any thing?

Vaf. No, my Lord, I saw nothing.

Clau. Nor I my Lord.

Bru. Go, and commend me to my Brother Cassius:

Bid him put on his Powers betimes before,

And we will follow.

Both. It shall be done, my Lord.

Exeunt.

Actus Quintus.

Enter, Octavius, Antony, and their Army.

Oct. Now Antony, our hopes are answered,
You said the Enemy would not come down,
But keep the Hills and upper Regions:
It proves not so: their Battles are at hand,
They mean to warm us at Philippi here:
Answering before we do demand of them.

Ant. But, I am in their Bombs, and I know
Wherefore they do it: They could be content
To visit other places, and come down
With fearful Bravery: thinking by this Face
To fasten in our Thoughts that they have Courage;
But 'tis not so.

Enter a Messenger.

Meff. Prepare you Generals,
The Enemy comes on in gallant shew.
Their bloody Sign of Battle is hung out,
And something to be done immediately.

Ant. Otho, lead your Battle softly on

Upon the left hand of the even Field.

Otho. Upon the right hand I, keep you the left.

Ant. Why do you cross me in this Exigent?

Otho. I do not cross you, but I will do so.

March.

Drum. Enter Brutus, Cassius and their Army.

Brut. They stand, and would have Parly.

Cass. Stand fast Titinius, we must out and talk:

Otho. Mark Antony, shall we give sign of Battle?

Ant. No Caesar, we will answer on their Charge.

Make forth the Generals would have some Words.

Otho. Stir not until the Signal.

Brut. Words before blows; is it so Countrymen?

Otho. Nor that we love Words better, as you do.

Brut. Good Words is better than bad Strokes, Otho.

Ant. In your bad Strokes, Brutus, you give good Words.

Witness the hole you made in Caesar's heart,

Crying, long live, Hail Caesar.

Cass. Antony.

The posture of your blows are yet unknown;

But for your words, they rob the Hiba Bees,

And leave them Honeyless.

Ant. Not Stinglefs too.

Brut. O yes, and Soundless too.

For you have stolen their Buzzing, Antony

And very wisely Threat before you Sting.

Ant. Villains, you did not so, when your vile daggers

Hackt one another in the Sides of Caesar;

You shew'd your Teeth like Apes,

And fawn'd like Hounds,

And bow'd like Bondmen, kissing Caesar's feet;

Whilst damned Caska, like a Cur, behind

Strook Caesar on the Neck. O you Flatterers!

Cass. Flatterers? Now Brutus thank your self;

This Tongue had not offered so to Day,

If Cassius might have Rul'd.

Otho. Come, come, the Cause; if Arguing makes us Swear,

The proof of it will turn to redder drops:

Look I draw a Sword against Conspirators;

When think you that the Sword goes up again?

Never till Caesar's Three and Thirty wounds

Be well avenged; or till another Caesar

Have
Have added slaughter to the Sword of Traitors

Brutus. Caesar, thou canst not dye by Traitors hands,

Unless thou bring’st them with thee.

O难. So I hope.

I was not born to dye on Brutus Sword.

Brutus. O If thou warst the Noblest of the Strain.

Young-man, thou could’st not dye more honourable,

Cassius. A peevish School-boy, worthles of such Honour.

Join’d with a Masker, and a Reveller,

Ant. Old Cassius still.

O难. Come Antony, away:

Defiance Traytors, hurl we in your teeth.

If you dare fight to day, come to the Field,

If not when you have stomachs.

Exit Octavius, Antony, and Army.

Cassius. Why now blow wind, swell Billow,

And swim Bark:

The storm is up, and all is on the hazard.

Brutus. Ho Lucilli, hark, a word with you.

Lucilli and Messala stand forth.

Luc. My Lord.

Cassius. Messala.

Messala. What says my General?

Cassius. Messala, this is my Birthday day, as this very day

Was Cassius Born. Give me thy hand Messala.

Be thou my witness that against my will

(As Pompey was) am I compel’d to let

Upon one Battle all our Liberties,

You know, that I held Epicurus strong,

And his Opinion: Now I change my mind,

And partly credit things that do prefage.

Coming from Sardis on our former Ensign

Two mighty Eagles fell, and there they search’d;

Gorging and feeding from our Souls’iers hands,

Who to Philippi here comforted us:

This Morning are they fled away, and gone,

And in their steads, do Ravens, Crows, and Kites

Fly o’re our heads, and downward look on us:

As we where sickly prey; their shadows seem

A Canopy most fatal, under which

Our Army lies, ready to give up the Ghost.

Messala. Believe not so.

Cassius. I but believe it partly,

For I am fresh of spirit, and resolv’d

To meet all perils, very Constantly.

Brutus. Even so Lucilli.
Cæs. Now most Noble, Brutus.

The Gods to day stand friendly, that we may Lovers in peace, lead on our days to Age.
But since the affairs of men rest still incert
Let's reason with the worst that may befall.
If we do lose this Battail, than is this
The very last time we shall speake together:
What are you then determined to do?

Brut. Even by the rule of that Philosophy,
By which I did blame Catō, for the death
Which he did give himself, I know not how:
But I do find it Cowardly, and vile
For fear of what might fall, so to prevent
The time of Life, arming my self with patience,
To stay the providence of some high Powers,
That govern us below.

Cæs. Then, if we lose this Battail,
You are contented to be led in Triumph
Thorow the Streets of Rome.

Brut. No Cæsins, no:
Think not, thou Noble Roman,
That ever Brutus will go bound to Rome,
He bears too great a mind, But this same day
Must end that work, the Ides of March begun
And whether we shall meet again, I know not:
Therefore our everlafting farewel take:
For ever, and for ever, farewel Cæsins,
If we do meet again, why we shall smile:
If not, why then this parting was well made,
Cæs. For ever, and for ever, farewel Brutus
If we do meet again, we'll smile indeed;
If not 'tis true, this parting was well made.

Brut. Why then lead on, O that a man might know
The end of this days business, e're it come:
But it sufficeth, that the day will end.
And then the end is known, Come ho, away.

Exeunt.

Alarums. Enter Brutus and Messala.

Brut. Ride, ride Messala, ride and give these bills
Unto the Legions, on the other side.

Let them set on at once, for I perceive
But cold demeanor in Octavius's wing:
And sudden push gives them the overthrow:
Ride, ride Messala, let them all come down.

Exeunt.

Lowd Alarum.
Alarums. Enter Cassius and Titinius

Cass. O look Titinius, look the Villains fly:
My self have to mind own turn'd Enemy;
This Ensign here of mine was turning back,
I flew the Coward, and did take it from him.

Tit. O Cassius, Brutus gave the word too early,
Who having some advantage on Octavius,
Took it too eagerly; his Souldiers fell to spoil,
Whilst we by Antony are all inclos'd,

Enter Pindarus.

Pind. Fly further off, my Lord, fly further off,
Mark Antony is in your Tents, my Lord;
Fly therefore Noble Cassius, fly far off.

Cass. This Hill is far enough. Look, look Titinius,
Are not those my Tents where I perceive the Fire?

Tit. They are, my Lord.

Cass. Titinius, If thou lovest me,
Mount thou my horse, and hide thy Spurs in him,
Till he have brought thee up to yonder Troops,
And here again, that I may rest assure'd
Whether yond Troops are Friend or Enemy.

Tit. I will be here again, even with a thought.

Cass. Go Pindarius, get higher on that hill,
My fight was ever thick: regard Titinius,
And tell me what thou not'st about the Field.
This day I breathed first, time is come round,
And where I did begin, their shall I end,
My life is run his compass. Sirrah, what news?

Pin. Above, O my Lord.

Cass. What news?

Pin. Titinius is inclosed round about.
With horfmen, that make to him on the Spur,
Yet he spurs on, Now they are almost on him.
Now Titinius, now some light: O! now he lights too,
He's tane. Shout.

And hark, they shout for joy:

Cass. Come down, behold no more:
O Coward that I am, to live so long,
To see my Friend tane before my face.

Enter Pindarus.

Come hither sirrah; in Parthia did I take thee Prisoner,
And then I swore thee, saving of thy Life,
That whatsoever I did bid thee do,
Thou shouldst attempt it, Come now keep thine Oath;
Now be a Free-man, and with this good Sword
That ran through Cæsar's bowels, search this bottom.
Stand not to answer: Here take thou the Hilt;
And when my face is cover'd, as 'tis now,
Guide thou the Sword——Cæsar, thou art reveng'd
Even with the Sword that kill'd thee.

Pin. So, I am free,
Yet would not so have been
Durst I have done my will, O Cassius!
Far from this Country Pindarus shall run,
Where never Roman shall take note of him.

Enter Titinius and Messala.

Mess. It is but change, Titinius; for Octavius
Is overthrown by Noble Brutus power,
As Cassius Legions are by Antony.
Titin. These tydings will well comfort Cassius.
Mess. Where did you leave him?
Titin. All disconsolate.
With Pindarus his Bondman, on this Hill.
Mess. Is not that he that lyes upon the ground?
Titin. He lies not like the Living, O my heart?
Mess. Is not that he?
Titin. No, this was he Messala,
But Cassius is no more. O setting Sun;
As in thy red Rays thou dost sink to night;
So in his red blood Cassius day is set.
The Sun of Rome is set, Our day is gone,
Clouds, Dews, and Dangers come; our deeds are done;
Misfortune of my success hath done this deed.
Mess. Misfortune of good success hath done this deed;
O hateful Error, Melancholies Child:
Why do'st thou shew to the apt thoughts of men
The things that are not? O Error soon conceiv'd,
Thou never com'st unto a happy birth;
But kill'st the Mother that engendred thee.

Titin. What Pindarus? Where art thou Pindarus?
Mess. Seek him Titinius, whilst I go to meet
The Noble Brutus, thrusting this report
Into his ears; I may lay thrusting it:
For piercing Steell, and Darts invenomed,
Shall be as welcome to the ears of Brutus,
As tydings of this fight.
Titinius. Hye you Messala,
And I will seek for Pindarus the while:
Why didst thou send me forth brave Cassius?
Did I not meet thy Friends, and did not they Put on my Brows this wrath of Victory,
And bid me give it thee? Didst thou not hear their showts?
Alas, thou hast misconstrued every thing.
But hold thee, take this Garland on thy Brow,
Thy Brutus bid me give it thee, and I
Will do his bidding. Brutus, come apace,
And see how I regarded Caius Cassius:
By your leave Gods; This is a Roman part,
Come Cassius Sword, and find Titinius heart.

Alarum. Enter Brutus, Messala, young Cato,
Srato, Volumnius, and Lucillius.

Brutus. Where, where Messala doth his body lye?
Messala. Lo, yonder, and Titinius mourning it.
Brutus. Titinius face is upwards.
Cato. He is slain.
Brutus. O Julius Caesar, thou art mighty yet,
Thy Spirit walks abroad, and turns our Swords
In our own proper Entrails.
Cato. Brave Titinius.
Look where he have not Crown’d dead Cassius.
Brutus. Are yet two Romans living such as these;
The last of all the Romans, far thee well:
It is impossible, that ever Rome
Should breed thy fellow, Friends I own my tears
To this dead man, than you shall see me pay.
I shall find time, Cassius I shall find time,
Come therefore, and Tharsus send his body,
His Funerals shall not be in our Camp,
Left it discomfort us, Lucillius come,
And come young Cato, let us to the Field,
Labio and Flavio set our Battails on,
’Tis three a Clock, and Romans yet e’re night,
We shall try Fortune in a second Fight.

Exeunt.

Alarum. Enter Brutus, Messala, Cato, Lucillius, and Flavius.

Brutus. Yet Country-men: O yet hold up your heads.
Cato. What Bastard doth not? Who will go with me.
I will proclaim my name about the Field.

I am
I am the Son of Marcus Cato, ho.
A Foe of Tyrants, and my Countries Friend.
I am the Son of Marcus Cato, ho.

Enter Soldiers, and fight.

Bru. And I am Brutus. Marcus Brutus I,
Brutus my Countries Friend: Know me for Brutus.
Luc. O young and Noble Cato, art thou down?
Why now thou dyeest as bravely as Titinius,
And may'st be honour'd being Cato's Son.
Sold. Yield, or thou diest.
Luc. Only I yield to die:
There is so much, that thou wilt kill me straight:
Kill Brutus, and he honour'd in his death.
Sold. We must not: A Noble Prisoner.

Enter Antony.

2. Sold. Room ho: tell Antony, Brutus is tane.
1. Sold. I'll tell the news. Here comes the General,
Brutus is tane, Brutus is tane, my Lord.
Ant. Where is he?
Luc. Safe Antony, Brutus it safe enough:
I dare assure thee, that no Enemy
Shall ever take alive the Noble Brutus
The Gods defend him from so great a shame.
When you do find him, or alive, or dead;
He will be found like Brutus, like himself.
Ant. This is not Brutus friend, but I assure you,
A prize no lefs in worth; keep this man safe,
Give him all kindness, I had rather have Such men my Friends than Enemies. Go on,
And see where Brutus be alive or dead,
And bring us word, unto Octavius Tent:
How every thing is chang'd.

Enter Brutus, Dardanius, Clitus, Streto, and Volumnius.

Bru. Come poor remains of friends, rest on this Rock.
Clit. Statilius, shew'd the Torch-light, but my Lord,
He came not back; he is tane, or slain.
Bru. Sit thee down, Clitus: slaying is the word,
It is a deed in fashion. Hark thee, Clitus.
Clit. What I, my Lord? No, not for all the World.
Bru. Peace then, no words.
Clit. I'd rather kill my self.
Bru. Hark thee, Dardanius.
Dard. Shall I do such a deed?
Clit. O Dardanius,
Dard. O Clitus.
Clit. What ill request did Brutus make to thee?
Dard. To kill him, Clitus: look he meditates.
Clit. Now is that Noble Vessel full of grief,
That it runs over even at his eyes.
Bru. Come hither, good Volumnius, lift a word.
Volum. What fies my Lord?
Bru. Why this, Volumnius:
The Ghost of Caesar hath appear'd to me
Two several times by Night: at Sardis, once;
And this last Night, here in Philippi Fields:
I know my hour is come.
Volum. Not so my Lord.
Bru. Nay, I am sure it is, Volumnius.
Thou see'st the World, Volumnius, how it goes,
Our Enemies have beat us to the Pit:
It is more worthy, to leap in our selves,
Then tarry till they push us. Good Volumnius,
Thou know'st, that we two went to School together.
Even for that our love of old, I prethee
Hold thou my Swords Hilt, whilst I run on it.
Volum. That's not an Office for a friend, my Lord.

Alarum.

Clit. Fly, fly my Lord, there is no tarrying here.
Bru. Farewel to you, and you Volumnius.
Strato, thou haft been all this while asleep:
Farewel to thee, to Strato, Countrymen:
My heart doth joy, that yet in all my life,
I found no man, but he was true to me.
I shall have glory by this losing day.
More then Octavius, and Mark Antony,
By this vile Conquest shall attain unto.
So fare you well at once, for Brutus tongue
Hath almost ended his lives History:
Night hangs upon mine eyes, my Bnoes wou'd reft,
That have but labour'd, to attain this hour.

Alarum.

Clit. Fly my Lord, fly.
Bru. Hence: I will follow:
I prethee Strato, stay thou by thy Lord,
Thou art a Fellow of a good respect:
Thy life hath had some snatch of Honour in it,
Hold then my Sword, and turn away thy face,
While I do run upon it, Wilt thou Strato.

Strat. Give me thy hand first, Fare you well my Lord.
Brut. Farewel good Strat—or Cæsar, now be still,
I Kill’d not thee with half so good a will.

Alarum. Retreat. Enter Antony, Octavius, Messala,
Lucilius, and the Army.

Octa. What man is that?
Mess. My Masters man, Strat—or, where is thy Master?
Strat. Free from the Bondage you are in Messala,
The Conquerors can but make a fire of him:
For Brutus only overcame himself,
And no man else hath Honour by his death.

Lucil. So Brutus should be found, I thank the Brutus
That thou haft prov’d Lucilius saying true.
Octa. All that serv’d Brutus, I will entertain them,
Fellow, wilt thou bestow thy time with me?
Strat. If Messala will prefer me to you.
Octa. Do so, good Messala.
Mess. How dyed my Master Strat—or?
Strat. I held the Sword, and he did run on it,
Mess. Octavius then take him to follow thee,
That did the latest service to my Master.

Ant. This was the Noblest Roman of them all:
All the Conspirators, save only he,
Did that they did in envy of great Cæsar:
He, only in a general honest thought,
And common good to all, made one of them.
His life was gentle, and the Elements
So mixt in him, that Nature might stand up,
And say to all the World; This was a man.

Octa. According to his Vertue, let us use him
With all Respect, and Rites of Burial.
Within my Tent his bones to night shall lye,
Most like a Soulier ordered Honourably:
So call the Field to rest, and let’s away,
To part the glories of this happy day.

Exeunt omnes.

FINIS.
